Limassol

By RAY MOLONEY

LIMASSOL, Cyprus (UPI)—The radio was playing dance music softly while gunfire rattled in the streets outside where Turkish and Greek Cypriots were fighting and dying.

We had slipped into the besieged Turkish section of this southwest port city which has been the scene of three days of intermittent but bitter fighting.

The British estimated there were about 50 killed and 100 wounded on both sides. And sporadic shooting continued hours after a cease-fire agreement had been arranged with the besieging Greek Cypriots.

"We've moved into the corridor because bullets were richochetting everywhere," said British RAF senior aircraftman Brian Cloud.

Cloud said he, his wife and their four-year-old daughter have been penned in their home since noon Tuesday. Turkish Cypriots helped by "bringing us food and so on, but I want to get my wife and daughter out of here as fast as I can."

"Limassol's only a start,"

said a grim-faced British army lieutenant outside. "If there's no settlement here, then God help the rest of the island."

In the chaotic Turkish quarter Thursday morning, Turkish Cypriots manning barricades were bracing for an all-out assault. They were bitter about the failure of British troops to take over the city to protect them.

British paratroopers and other units from the nearby base at Episkopi were standing by on the outskirts, awaiting orders to move in. But the Greek Cypriots, who were forcing the situation and who outnumbered the Turkish Cypriots five to one, wanted to keep the British soldiers out.

CYPRIOTS ACCEPT TROOPS

Makarios

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Makarios of Cyprus indicated Thursday he would accept a peace-keeping force composed of countries, high-ranking U.S. administration officials reported here Thursday night.

This solution would be acceptable to the United States, should Makarios reject the U.S.-British plan for a multi-national force, including U.S. troops, to land on the island and restore peace, the informant said.

Cyprus has been a member of the Commonwealth since becoming independent in 1960.

They said that the Cypriot president did not reject completely the joint proposal submitted to him by U.S. State Undersecretary George W. Ball. Instead, they said, Makarios made a counter-proposal which Ball immediately forwarded to Washington where President Johnson and British Prime Minister Douglas-Home took it under consideration.

Ottawa Warm But Wary

LONDON (CP)—Lionel Chevrier, Canada's new high commissioner in London, said here Thursday Canada is not yet committed to contribute troops to the proposed Cyprus peace force, but is studying the British request for 1,000 men "with sympathy."

The formation of the force, he told a press conference, depends on a firm decision from Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus.

B.C. Electric Issue Still Hot Voltage

Wild Finale to Dull Day

Death agonies of the B.C. Electric brought a wild 25 minutes in the legislature last night.

Calm of a relatively dull day was suddenly shattered when the government brought in for second reading a bill authorizing last year's final payment of $25,000,000 to B.C. Power Corporation.

Within minutes, the premier had been charged of making untruthful statements, million-aire lodge Gordon Gibson (L. North Vancouver) had been accused of appearing intoxicated in the legislature, and the government had been told it had denied justice to the people.

Debate on the bill opened when Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby) said it was patchup legislation for the BCE takeover and that the province's right to expropriate a utility was still under a cloud.

NOT ENTERED

He said the judgment of Chief Justice Sherwood Lett has not been entered in the supreme court registry.

Mr. Gibson got into the melee with the remark that in 1961 he asked Premier Bennett about details of the expropriation and had not been told the truth.

"It was very embarrassing that I was given facts that were not true," said the burly lumber baron.

"You were tight, then," shouted Victoria's Walter Skiffings.

OPPOSITION SHAMEFUL

Cries of "Shame" rose from Opposition benches.

The premier said the Opposition was being shameful.

Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane leaped in by accusing the government of ignoring rights of the expropriated company's preferred shareholders.

The government should do something to bring about a fair settlement with the holders of preferred shares, he said, otherwise it would be denying them justice.

"It's a disgrace these people should be treated so shabbily. This bill brings the whole thing into focus."

To Communists

U.K. Offers Trade Lure

WASHINGTON (CP) — Prime Minister Douglas-Home said Thursday Britain hopes to expand trade with Communist countries and is prepared to offer long-term credit in anticipation of capturing a number of new contracts in the Soviet Union.

He said also that while he and President Johnson achieved harmony on a large number of world questions, Britain does not agree with the U.S. on policy towards Cuba. Nor would Britain endorse any move to impose boycotts or other discrimination on non-strategic trade with the Communists.

Summing up his two days of discussions with Johnson, Douglas-Home told a press conference the two countries agreed to work together in world tariff negotiations this year and to come to a member of the United States ahead with hopes of achieving some disarmament agreements with Russia.

The prime minister emphasized that Britain fully endorses U.S. military action in South Viet Nam, Johnson, in turn, endorsed the independence and freedom of Malaysia.

Touching on the Cyprus issue, Douglas-Home warned that the bloodshed there could spread into a war that could engulf all of the Mediterranean area.

As for American opposition to recognition of Red China, Sir Alec said Britain feels Red China should be allowed to be negotiated this year and to come to a member of the United States ahead with hopes of achieving some disarmament agreements with Russia.

Sonic Boom-Boom-Boom

Test Town Battle-Fatigued

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Boom, boom, boom, boom—eight times a day.

It's an ear-racking U.S. government sonic boom test to see how humans and cities can stand up under the rattling noise supersonic airliners will create. Oklahoma City is the test town.

One man has already had enough. He filed suit Thursday in U.S. district court charging the tests were unconstitutional.

Woodrow Bussey said the boom tests set a precedent that "conceivably" could lead to such things as birth control without prior consent of the citizens.

Also, Bussey said, booms hurt his ears.

Bussey sought an injunction to halt the tests by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The FAA began Feb. 3 with flights that caused the booms. They started at one-a-day and increased to the present eight. Results of the tests will help decide whether the United States should develop supersonic transport planes.

"Everytime I hear a sonic boom," Bussey, who suffered a wartime ear injury, said, "it's like something slapped me in the head. I can take it, but when it affects my little girl, that's something else."

Bussey said his daughter, Julie Chennault Bussey, 5, had no ear trouble before the boom testing began last week. Then, he said, she began having hearing difficulties. The FAA said the first week of testing resulted in 60 damage claims and 655 telephone calls.

"A sonic boom that can shake a house could do nothing but harm to the delicate membranes of the human ear..." Bussey's petition said.

Bennett Refuses To See Worker

By TERRY HAMMOND

An angry young Fort St. John social worker who flew to Victoria to see Premier Bennett isn't going to.

Wallace du Temple, 23, went to the premier's office yesterday morning but was told Mr. Bennett was in conference and would not be available.

After waiting around the legislative buildings for several hours he said he would try again today.

But the premier last night indicated it would be fruitless.

Asked in a corridor if he would grant an appointment to Mr. du Temple, the premier snapped, "He's not an employee of this government."

He was referring to the fact that the young social worker had been handed his release by the welfare department a short time after he got here.

Mr. du Temple, whose mother lives in Saanich, created the latest upheaval in the provincial welfare office when he wrote a letter of resignation to the premier protesting unsatisfactory social services in northern B.C.

He said in the letter he had never received adequate training to cope with the awful conditions he found along his 1,100 miles of territory north of Fort St. John.

Prostitution and drunkenness were creating a serious juvenile delinquency problem in one of his communities but the welfare service wouldn't open an office there. His caseload was nearly double what it was supposed to be and because of long distances he could seldom be where he was needed.

He offered to make his resignation effective next June so the welfare department could get a new man.

Manual, Film, Coffee Course on Welfare

B.C.'s in-service training course for social workers consists largely of irrelevant study punctuated by coffee drinking, one of its graduates charged last night.

Wallace du Temple, 23, who sparked a new storm of welfare controversy with a letter to the premier, said the course is a waste of time, effort and money.

"The course consists of two parts, readings from the welfare policy manual and a 10-part movie."

Mr. du Temple said the movie covers each year in the life of a child from birth to the age of 10.

Nuclear Dumps

Dogfood Included In $8,000,000

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—It's going to cost more than $8,000,000 a year to guard the storage dumps where nuclear warheads are kept for Canada's armed forces, informants said Thursday.

This figure includes dog food.

But not the nuclear warheads themselves. The United States supplies them free.

The dog food bill will be fairly substantial because the RCAF bought 34 German police dogs to help guard the two dumps on the airfields at Zweibrücken and Baden-Söllingen in West Germany. The dogs cost $150 each.

The other nuclear dumps are or will be at: Werl and Hemer in West Germany for the army's Honest John Rocket; at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile; and at Chatham, N.B., for the Voodoo jet interceptor.

There are no immediate plans for security staff dogs at the dumps in Canada.

What's troubling the defence department, at a time when it's trying to cut overhead costs, is that it will require literally hundreds of men — one source said more than 1,000 — to guard the dumps. The RCAF said the number of guards is a military secret.

Trip Fruitless

ment could find a replacement but when he got to the legislature yesterday a copy of a telegram sent to him at Fort St. John was placed before him.

It read: "Re: your public letter of resignation dated Feb. 7 to Hon. Mr. Bennett. Your resignation is accepted as of today's date as a replacement is available. A salary adjustment is being worked out."

Mr. du Temple's first act at the building was to try to see Welfare Minister Black.

Last night he said the minister had given him "the brushoff."

In Mr. Black's office, he recalled, a receptionist had told him the minister was dictating to his secretary but she would go in and see if an interview could be granted.

"She seemed quite excited to see me," Mr. du Temple said afterwards. "She was in there a long time and when she came out she said the minister had to go out to attend a conference."

"There wasn't any reason for him not to see me."

Later he had an interview with Welfare Director J. A. Sadler.

He said Mr. Sadler admitted to him there were problems in welfare but they were being ironed out.

Last night the young social worker was skeptical. He said he didn't think the government would solve the welfare problem because not enough of the electorate is closely associated with it.

If he can't make an appointment to see the premier today, Mr. du Temple said, he will probably head back for Fort St. John on Monday to look for a job.

He said the trip down here cost him about $130. All he had to show for it was his notice of release and a second telegram which made him happier.

It read: "Good luck in your crusade. We wish you well."

It was signed by Mrs. Bridget Moran, the part-time social worker who prompted the public protest in welfare ranks when she wrote to Premier Bennett six weeks ago protesting work overloads and inefficiency in her department.

Irrelevant Study

"It is a very good movie. If you were running a nursery it might be quite useful."

But, he said, when he was posted to Fort St. John after the course he found that less than five per cent of his caseload was in any way related to the evolution of a 10-year-old.

NOT INTENSIVE

Study was not intensive, he said. "We'd work for about an hour and then take a half-hour off for coffee. Then we'd have work again and have more coffee and we'd take an hour and a half for lunch. Then in the afternoon we'd work and have coffee again."

The course lasted for about 20 working days, he said.

"It bore no relation to the problems in the north."

He said more than 50 per cent of his work north of Fort St. John involved counselling people with problems. "The course hadn't dealt with that."

SCRAP COURSE

Mr. du Temple said the welfare department should scrap the course and spend the money on something more worthwhile.

In place of it, he suggested, new and untrained social workers could be sent out for a month with experienced workers.

Wild Windup in House

It's another reason why the government should get rid of the Crown Procedure Act and open the doors of justice to the people of this province.

He said the Liberals would support the bill, which puts the final price paid for BCE at $197,000,000, but he pleaded for a second one to protect holders of preferred shares.

HANG HIS HEAD

Then Leo Nimick (NDP, Cranbrook) said the methods used to take over the BCE were nothing to be proud of.

"The premier should hang his head in shame."

Stung, the premier jumped to his feet and flayed the opposition benches.

They could have voted against the expropriation move in 1961 but they didn't, he said.

Referring to a reference by Mr. Macfarlane to the costs of BCE litigation, he added, "We put people before special interests."

"This little lawyer from Oak Bay talks about costs of the court. That's nothing compared to the $16,700,000 we've saved."

The premier demanded a recorded vote and the division bells clanged.

He said he didn't want the Liberals to "sneak out from under their words" later.

The bill finally got unanimous approval.

The Greek Cypriots launched what was described as a well-organized assault on the Turkish Cypriot sector.

They were armed with rifles, handcocks and light machine-guns and supported by a tank. I entered the Turkish sector through twisting back streets sown with home-made Turkish Cypriot mines. In a makeshift hospital I saw a Turkish doctor collapse hysterically as Greek Cypriot machinegun fire rattled among the houses.

For more than an hour while I was inside the Turkish sector, the Turkish Cypriots did not fire a shot.

"So far the shooting is long-range. We are saving our ammunition for a direct attack," one wounded Turkish Cypriot said.

The Turkish Cypriot community centre was transformed into an emergency command post and hospital.

Turkish Cypriot surgeon Jamal Ouden said: "I have personally seen seven dead and treated 13 battle casualties since Tuesday, but I know the real figures are much higher."

A large section of the Turkish Cypriot quarter was in the hands of the Greek Cypriots. They used armored bulldozers to flatten rickety houses and the Turkish Cypriots claimed there were many dead under the rubble. The emergency hospital was crammed with wounded. A sudden burst of machinegun fire sent everybody diving for the floor. Sounds of screaming from one of the rooms brought a surge of panic.

Matron Djemalye Hoonagla told me: "The British have been telling us 'We're coming in one hour,' but we have been waiting three days. If the British don't come by tonight we shall be all dead and all they can do is bury us."

During the morning's fighting, a Turkish Cypriot sniper killed the Greek Cypriot driver of an armored bulldozer which was trying to knock down barricades.

The Turkish Cypriot defenses consisted of hastily rigged barricades manned by youths and old men, armed mostly with shotguns. There were some machineguns.

Most of the Greek firing appeared to be coming from the towering "Kao" brewery a few blocks away.

Around mid-day, a British armored vehicle drove in and took out Turkish Cypriot leader Jamal Ramadan for cease-fire talks with the British commander, Maj.-Gen. Peter Young, and Greek Cypriot Interior Minister Georgiadis.

Your Good Health

Don't Delay Surgery Too Long If You Have Big Gallstone

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: About six years ago when I was in the hospital I had some X-rays which showed a gallstone about the size of a walnut. My doctor advised surgery but not immediately. A friend said that this could turn into cancer if I didn't have an operation. I haven't had any attacks, but when I am sitting or trying to bend over, it is hard for me to straighten up. This scares me. Something seems to get stuck under my rib and I can feel a lump for a few seconds. Do you advise surgery or can it wait?—MRS. A.G.

I won't say whether gallstones "turn into cancer," or cause cancer, but we do know that cancer of the gall bladder is more frequent among patients who have had gallstones which have been allowed to remain.

NO DISCOMFORT

This includes the "silent" gallstones, or stones which do not cause any discomfort to the patient.

You say that your walnut-sized stone was discovered when you were in the hospital and had X-rays. I presume this means that you were in hospital for something else, and the gallstone was discovered incidentally.

NOT IMMEDIATELY Your doctor "advised surgery but not immediately." Evidently he was primarily concerned with whatever caused you to be in the hospital. That makes good sense. He wanted that — whatever it was — cleared up first.

But when he said the gallstone should be removed, I don't think he meant that you should wait six years. Do you? If I had a walnut-sized stone in my gall bladder, I'd have it out.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about aphasia. Can it be detected by brain-wave tests?—MRS. J. M.

Aphasia is the inability either to understand or to speak words. It implies either disease or injury to the part of the brain which governs speech, usually the left side.

Generally speaking, a brain-wave test wouldn't show that a person had aphasia. You wouldn't need a test to show that! But if the aphasia existed, a brain-wave test would, or might, disclose a tumor or other lesion in the brain which would account for the aphasia.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 23, very overweight, have low thyroid, and have not menstruated for over a year. I have been to two doctors. They told me my weight was probably the cause. What is your opinion?—W.S.

Both factors, overweight and low thyroid activity, are known to affect menstruation. Instead of going to two doctors and doubting what they have told you, why don't you go to just one, and do something about the trouble? The doctor can treat you for the thyroid condition which, in turn, may make it easier for you to lose weight, which is your part of the job.

Every Word Contested

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — With the defence objecting to each word, a Nashville insurance man told Thursday of repaying a bribe offer he said he received as a juror in James Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial.

The teamster president's Detroit lawyer, James E. Hagerty, called the testimony of insurance agent James C. Tip-pens "compounded hearsay." Harry Berke, his Chattanooga lawyer, called it "rankest hearsay."

They asked him just one question on cross-examination: "Do you know Mr. Hoffa?" The reply: "No."

When Tippens finished, the government said it can finish its case "in 20 minutes" today. The trial began Jan. 20.

Tippens, excused from the Nashville jury after reporting the bribe offer, was allowed to testify only within narrow limits imposed by Judge Frank Wilson.

The judge, ruled Tippens could testify only to back up earlier testimony from chief government witness Edward G. Partin, a Baton Rouge, La., Brotherhood of Teamsters official.

Hoffa and five other men are on trial on charges of trying to influence the jury which heard the Nashville conspiracy case. The Nashville jury deadlocked and a mistrial resulted.

Wonderful 13 Weeks

Steelworkers on Holiday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Veteran steelworkers are starting, for the first time, 13-week paid vacations granted in the current steel labor contract.

"Best thing they could do for a workingman; it's wonderful," said James L. Parker, a laborer at U.S. Steel Corporation's nearby Clairton coking plant.

A mill worker for 41 years, Parker added: "It's a relief. You're getting paid for it and you feel good."

Machinist Harry McKee, 62, said: "I've got my wife, grandson and dog. We're happy. I hope the rest of the men are enjoying their vacations as much as I am."

Canada Plans Repayment

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Canadian government has decided to make what an informant Thursday night described as a "substantial" repayment on its 1962 loan from the International Monetary Fund.

The loan was part of massive borrowings to bolster the Canadian dollar exchange rate which came under heavy speculative attack two years ago.

McKee works at the Pittsburgh works of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. He has been in the mills 45 years, through bitter strikes and layoffs.

"If someone told us 40 years ago we would get 13-week vacations, we would have told them they were crazy. We never looked for this year ago."

The vacation program was worked out in negotiations last year between major basic steel producers and the United Steelworkers Union. It covers some 450,000 workers in basic steel and has since spread to other steel-related plants. The plan provides 13-week vacations every five years for the 50-percent of the work force with the most seniority. It's figured on a company-wide basis, not plant by plant.

Ex-Mountie Clear To Give Evidence

VANCOUVER (CP) — The way has been cleared for the taking of a deposition which will be used in the defence of John Wasylenchuk on a charge of murder.

Wasylenchuk, a Canadian, is awaiting trial in Seattle on a charge of killing a policeman in a Seattle bank holdup nearly 10 years ago.

U.S. attorney Brock Adams had balked at a defence request for a deposition from Ernest Nuttall, a retired RCMP sergeant who doubts he can attend the Seattle trial because of a heart condition.

Mr. Adams called for an examination by a U.S. specialist. A doctor was sent to Vancouver, and Mr. Adams said yesterday the specialist's report confirms the heart condition.

Mr. Nuttall, 63, testified at Wasylenchuk's extradition hearing that he interviewed Wasylenchuk in Burnaby within an hour of the Seattle robbery—150 miles away.

U.K. Forces Unite April 1

LONDON (CP) Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's government announced Thursday a slightly increased defence budget for 1964-65 and said all branches of the armed forces will be unified in a single department April 1.

UP £160,800,000

Emphasizing its desire to keep up Britain's nuclear arsenal, the government proposed military expenditures of £1,998,500,000 ($3,995,500,000), an increase of £160,800,000.

Plans for setting up a unified defence ministry under a single secretary have been afoot for months. The defence budget, issued as a government white paper, said the point had now been reached where, subject to parliamentary approval, it was possible to name April 1 as the effective date.

The report also announced Britain agreed to take part in an 18-month experiment on an American warship to try out the United States' plan for a mixed-manned NATO nuclear force.

But the report made it clear Britain made no commitment to join such a force.

Berlin Wall May Open For Easter

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communist government said Thursday night it is willing to reopen the Berlin wall during the Easter and Whitsun holidays to West Berliners who want to visit their families in the Soviet sector.

Easter Sunday is March 29 and Whitsun seven weeks later.

A government statement said West Berliners would be issued permits to cross through the wall under the same conditions that prevailed during the 18-day Christmas holiday.

Go Ahead—If You Can

MOSCOW (UPI) — A young reader asked the Soviet magazine Komsomolskaya Zvezda (Young Communist League Life) whether it was okay for a member of the league to dance the Charleston.

"If you can dance the Charleston," said the editors, "go ahead and dance it."

Laing Warns:

'Greedy Eyes on Reserves'

VANCOUVER (CP)—There are greedy eyes on many of the Indian reservations in Canada, Northern Affairs Minister Laing said yesterday.

Much reservation land now is within or touches on large cities and has enormous value, he said. Too often, in their present state, reservation areas are "an anachronistic blot on the surroundings." "Of course they should be developed—but only on a long-term lease basis with the revenues reserved for the material improvement of the Indian people."

A Wise Reversal

THE PUBLIC works minister has had the grace to take a quick second look at his idea of building the new provincial museum at the summit of Beacon Hill. That much is to his credit but he shouldn't even have had his first look. The immediate public opposition to which he has bowed might well have been anticipated.

Victorians have made clear they do not want the amenities of Beacon Hill Park encroached upon and despoiled, but one other surprising feature of Mr. Chant's proposal has been the strangely non-committal attitude of City Hall. The civic fathers should have been the first to object strenuously at the mere mention of putting the museum building in the park.

The museum will be located on the site that has always been earmarked for it, on the present parking lot at the corner of Government and Belleville. This is where it belongs, in the precincts of the Legislative Buildings, and it will be up to Mr. Chant to see that his architects design a structure fitting harmoniously into this area, and thus remove his expressed fears in this regard.

There is some evidence, however, that Victorians will do well to keep an eye on any future attempts to invade their Beacon Hill treasure trove, a park that does the city immense credit and is the outstanding physical asset it possesses.

The works minister seemingly still favors the park being used for mundane utilitarian purposes, as witness his hope that some day an aquarium or "other attraction" will be dumped there. He apparently does not even now realize that the park's chief attraction is for it to be left as it is.

It seems patent therefore that the Greater Victoria public which enjoys the beauty of Beacon Hill, so well and carefully tended by the city parks department, must still remain on guard against any future ill-conceived plans of encroachment. City Hall itself should take the hint and make its desire for the park's protection equally manifest.

Not Unique

VICTORIA SEEMS to be getting more than its fair share of visitations from right-wing extremists these days.

On Monday of this week for instance, University of Victoria students were addressed by Mr. Don Karen, a leading disciple of the American John Birch Society. Two days later his Anzac counterpart, Mr. Eric Butler, national director of the Australian League of Rights, spoke to local members of the Christian Action Movement.

Their messages, almost identical, boiled down to this:

- Look for a Red under every bed;
- Suspect all those in high places who believe that world peace can be achieved without war with the Communists;
- Honor the memory of Senator Joseph McCarthy.

Though he made each of these separate points clearly, Mr. Karen dwelt particularly on the merits of his society's suspicion of people in high places. He suggested that some members of the U.S. Supreme Court are actively aiding and abetting the cause of Communism in the United States.

Though naming no names, Mr. Karen was obviously referring to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas who only last week bluntly told U.S. peace commissioners on their way to Thailand that the American policy of "closing its eyes to the Chinese mainland . . . always seemed to me the ultimate of stupidity."

To the Birchists such a statement would be more than enough for them to declare that Justice Douglas is a traitor to his country. Already the John Birch Society has called for the impeachment of U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren for similar offences.

Mr. Karen's Australian ally was no less forthright in his views.

The United States, Mr. Butler said, should attack Cuba immediately and "eliminate Castro's regime." He didn't think the Soviet leaders would risk a nuclear war over such an armed invasion. But he was willing to take the chance, anyway.

Though it is unlikely that either of these emissaries from abroad will meet with much success in enlisting Canadian adherents to their cause, they did succeed in doing us a favor by proving that crackpot organizations are not unique to Canada.

Short Weight

A COMPARISON of provincial tourist-advertising expenditures published in the current issue of Canadian Tourism has put British Columbia in an unfavorable light. It shows us in sixth place, trailing far behind Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba, and spending only a little more than two-thirds as much as the last of these.

B.C. is cited as having an outlay of only $104,430 in 1963. But it has now been made clear that this sum is only the part of the recreation department's budget allocated to space advertising—newspapers, magazines and billboards—and excludes other forms of promotion and more important, the matching grants to the eight regional tourism-development boards, which no doubt would bring the province up to a better position in a listing taking into account all such endeavors. B.C. obviously has been given short weight in the comparison.

This province can hardly aspire to take first place over Quebec and Ontario in its visitor-seeking expenditures under present circumstances, though that may be a target for the future with the rapid growth of its economy. Perhaps there is even something to be said for the point of view that B.C. doesn't need as much advertising as its neighbors across the country; its virtues speak so loudly for themselves.

This is not to suggest, however, that there should be complacent satisfaction with the present provincial allocation for the purpose, nor with the Canadian outlay as a whole.

The three years remaining until the centenary of Confederation might to great advantage see a steady buildup of effort in this field in all the provinces and on the national scale. Though the centennial tourist focus may be the world's fair in Montreal, there can be no doubt that the benefits will be felt from the Atlantic to the Pacific if they are adequately sought.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships,

By TOM TAYLOR

A composing room colleague caught me by the lapel as I passed to ask a question that had me stumped.

He had been having a debate with some friends the night before and he wanted to know what you called a man from Edinburgh. That is, what is the suffix that proclaims his town identity.

Once having been a Glaswegian I could have recalled some things Clydesiders call Edinburgh folk but that would have been impolite. Nor did I feel like suggesting the term Edinburgher, because of its culinary "burger" association. I have a few friends who hail from "Auld Reekie" and I want to keep them.

But what do you call a citizen of Edinburgh, or of Kamloops for that matter. You'd hardly refer to the latter as a Kamloopian, after all, or a Kamlooper.

It's all a matter of euphony, I suppose. Some place names can be aptly tagged to the people who inhabit them, some can not. We refer to a Roman, a Parisian, a Philadelphian, but we never cite a Spaniard of his capital city as being a Madridian.

The latter wouldn't slip smoothly from the tongue. It would seem out of semantic joint.

For that matter what do you call a man from Oak Bay, or a citizen of Saanich, not to speak of Esquimalt? Each of these when he is out of town can of course refer to himself, and probably does, as a Victorian, which is a handy all-embracing term even if there's no amalgamation. The post office likes it.

The favorite suffixes are "ian," "n," "er," "ese," all a neat extension of the place name, and thus we have Londoner, Venetian, Maltese and the like. But while a Chinese may belong to Peking we don't think of him as a Pekinese, for instance.

There are variations, however, those linked to local history for example. Such as the Lancashire lad who belongs to Manchester and who is known as a Mancunian, a term stemming from the Latin name of his city. And as you have learned of recent days four young men have invaded North America from Liverpool and they are Liverpoolians. The puzzle comes as you might guess from the sea-pool that baptized the town.

Ranging the globe some offhand we might recall captions like Pakistani or Israeli. The latter is a Biblical reference only except its modern use by a religious group, and the current-day geographical Israeli is an Israeli. Coming closer to home again there is Quebec, wherein one may be a Quebecois if one is French-speaking. Judging by current trends I presume if he's English-speaking he is simply an alien, no capital.

But some citizens seem destined to go through life without being able to hug to themselves a one-word identifying term that would bespeak their civic heritage.

The mainland denizens of Vancouver are in this unhappy state, since presumably they don't call themselves Vancouverites, Vancouverians or Vancouverers, all too much of a mouthful for comforting or pleasing designation.

There is Duncan, too, and Sooke and Nanaimo and Ladysmith, et al. What do their citizens adopt as the personal suffix that joins them to their home towns?

I don't know, anymore than I know why a person of my natal distinction should be called a Glaswegian, although the latter seems apt enough and easily recognized.

But coming back to the beginning, as it were, I am still stumped by the original query posed to me. Perhaps an Edinburgh expatriate can solve my difficulty.

And while he is at it he can enlighten me about the tag to apply to a person from Stockholm, from Saskatchewan, from Belfast, from St. Catharines, from Copenhagen, from Amsterdam, from Los Angeles, and any other relevant points east or west that come to mind.

Vengeance in Rwanda

Sanctioned Massacre

TRIBAL warfare is as old as Africa itself. What makes the campaign waged by the Bahutu tribesmen against the Watutsi different is that it has all the official sanction and power of the Rwanda government behind it. It has also all the bitterness unleashed when a subservient tribe rises against its overlords.

The blood spilled in the tiny state of Rwanda, to the east of Lake Kivu in the very heart of equatorial Africa, comes from thousands of Watutsi who have been massacred with incredible butchery. Missionaries who have witnessed some of the worst acts of a deliberate policy of genocide against the 250,000 Watutsi population. And already, some say, a tenth of that number have perished since the present wave of killings began on Christmas Eve.

Tension between the tall, aristocratic Watutsi pastoralists and the five-foot, servile Bahutu cultivators has been at flash-point ever since their first bloody clash in 1959. This was two years before the Belgians finally pulled out and handed over their mandate for Rwanda Urundi to the United Nations, making way for the creation of the twin, independent states of Rwanda, in the north, and Burundi in the south.

Behind the Bahutu bitterness are generations of enslavement by the Watutsi who came to the country as conquerors. When the wind of change finally penetrated even this remote corner of Africa, it gave the Bahutu the message that their 90 per cent majority over the Watutsi in the ballot box was far more powerful than all the might and spears of their masters. The Belgians, angered at the Watutsi plots to kick them out and declare immediate independence, helped to spread the message among the Bahutu, hoping that the ensuing tribal discord might delay independence a year or two until the people were more prepared for it. They never envisaged the dreadful consequences, once the Bahutu tempers were up and the Watutsi had been rendered powerless at the polls.

When the tables were finally turned on the Watutsi with a suddenness that left them dazed, as well as shorn of their generations of undisputed masters, most of them reluctantly accepted the reversed roles. A few determined to resist.

In the south, which is now Burundi, the Bahutu and the Watutsi managed to settle down to independence under a fairly stable government that wisely outlawed racialism and tribal feuds.

Not so in the northern, more mountainous Rwanda, too small even to be economically viable in independence. The Belgians had already deposed the Watutsi Mwami from Rwanda and the new Bahutu government installed in the mountain capital of Kigali made sure he would never return by confiscating his property and driving out his supporters.

The Rightist president, Gregoire Kayibanda, now rules with undisputed authority, backed by his vice-president, and his determination to wipe out all Watutsi resistance now overrides all other considerations. It appears that the president recently uncovered a plot against him in which a number of Watutsi were implicated, together with some Bahutu political opponents.

This discovery, coinciding with armed raids by Watutsi hordes formed into a terrorist organization known as "inyenzi" (the cockroach) sparked off the present wave of massacres just before Christmas. The small Rwanda army, harassed on all sides by terrorist attacks as refugees struck at it from Uganda, Tanganyika, the Congo and Burundi, called on the civilians to help.

In one operation Rwanda troops crossed into Burundi territory in pursuit of terrorists, and Burundi says some of its citizens were killed. This strained relations between the two miniature states even more and finally decided Burundi Premier Ngendandumwe to draw the attention of other African states to the wave of killings on his very doorstep. And in a telegram of protest he labelled President Kayibanda "the Nero of Africa."

President Kayibanda has publicly thanked the Bahutu civilians for their help in wiping out many Watutsi. He has told them that because of the difficult terrain in his mountain state, where it rains almost daily and where much of the country is clothed in dank, enveloping mist for days on end, soldiers alone were insufficient to combat the dreaded "inyenzi."

But in his zeal to wipe out terrorists, President Kayibanda has declared war on the entire Watutsi population, the majority of whom are now lying low in the hope that the present wave of hatred against them might die down. Thousands are now sheltering in the many missions dotted on the fertile ridges and hillsides. Their one hope is that outside opinion, especially in the neighboring African states, might ensure that at least the women and children will be spared the awful vengeance of the Bahutu tribe and the Rwanda government.

Who Is a Crook?

Public Gravy

By SHAWN HERRON from Lowell, Mass.

IT IS so easy to misrepresent the real and complex pattern of a nation's life by a false emphasis on some of its constituent parts.

The American, it is assumed abroad, has an almost pathological fear of the corporate and compassionate responsibilities of the body politic. He is infantile about "creeping socialism," one hears, and one supposes it to be so.

The high-minded commentator with the flowing style has his angle: the technical realities of power, local, regional, national and pathological, are his particular provinces and he does a reasonable job in discussing them. He moves among politicians and commentators, however, and misses quite a lot that is rather obvious among people—linkers, tailors, soldiers and stockbrokers, for example.

Several of my relatively close neighbors have recently gone to jail. All of them were professional men of one category or another, all of them had the exterior markings of genial respectability, and all of them were the exactors of bribes, graft and corrupt money from people doing business with government. All of them belonged to the usual multiple social and service—and heaven save us, religious—associations that mean image in this society. And all of them were crooks without what are normally regarded as criminal contexts—no Cosa Nostra, no burglars, no muggers, no small. Just greed.

I cannot understand the ideological dangers of Medicare for the aged, you say.

I cannot see why the failing Boston and Maine Railroad cannot be operated as a public utility, you say.

I cannot see what is communistic about public health insurance, you say.

And most of my neighbors will reply: Neither can we. But who is going to operate them?

It is a better question than you may understand and it has nothing to do with political theory, or ideological fear, or with subversion by the enemy within. It has to do with simple honesty. Not: Who is a Communist? But: Who is a crook?

As I say, my relatively near neighbors keep going to jail, as unrepentant as Lucifer. The most recently indicted, holding one of the highest offices in the state, cannot even be removed from his post by any existing law. If we hadn't screamed off some of the gravy, somebody else would: this appears to be their attitude. The offense is not to be guilty but to be caught.

It is just as misleading for us ground-floor commentators to overemphasize this as it is for the high-class commentators to ignore it on their Olympus. Not everybody who embraces public service (or that special category in which so many men come to grief: "consultant to" this or that government department or project) is a thief or a crook. Most, in fact, are not.

But public hesitation about a central pool of gravy, to be drained by an increased force of politicians, public servants and consultants, is not difficult to understand. "It goes right to the top," one of my sobriety concerned neighbors said last night. And it does.

There was, for example, the now established alliance between Bobby Baker and the anti-medicaid, multi-millionaire oil king senator from Oklahoma—the late Senator Kerr, one of President Kennedy's public "friends" and resolute frustrators.

The record of his financial dealings with Bobby Baker is now reaching the public prints. The sort of thing that makes the honest public shudder is that Senator Kerr had a pet project called the Arkansas River project, to provide a waterway from the Mississippi River 450 miles to the Oklahoma plains, ending 18 miles northeast of Tulsa. He was chairman of the rivers and harbors subcommittee of the Senate public works committee and thus he advanced the river project.

By chance he and his associates owned land and, happy chance, it happened to be on the banks of the projected waterway; and they had plans for an industrial complex—space plants—on land they owned just where the waterway terminated. Senator Kerr was also chairman of the Senate space committee.

Whom do we trust? ask my neighbors: The cowboy barons are still abusing power just as they did in the old second-frontier westerns, but now they're in business suits and professional associations, and in church fraternal organizations. And in jail sometimes.

Reasons for Second Look

Our Readers' Views

Public opinion on the proposal to build the provincial museum on the summit of Beacon Hill is further illustrated in the following letters written before Mr. Chant changed his mind.

Desecration

MAY I add my name to what I hope will be hundreds of letters to your paper protesting at the proposed plan of the provincial government to build a museum in Beacon Hill Park.

Surely we—and people from afar who once loved Victoria for its unique charm—have enough to bear seeing it ruined by rows of cement and glass monstrosities on Douglas Street facing the park, as well as elsewhere.

Someone somewhere said that "the day of the stroller is over," meaning everyone now rides. This is nonsense, and especially in the environs of the park, where live numerous retired people, many of whom do not own cars, and for whom a quiet stroll in our lovely little wooded sanctuary is one of the few free pleasures left to them.

There is plenty of available and more appropriate land, at little or no cost to taxpayers, without committing this last and unforgivable desecration.

PASTORALE.

Not the Hill

Beacon Hill Park might be excellent for the natural history museum; but only that part bounded by Heywood Avenue, the picnic area and the road entrance from Rupert Street.

The present park entrance from Douglas Street would be a magnificent approach.

An underground parking area with souvenir arcades and coffee shop might be built with an entry from Oliphant Street also including museum publications and public information and check room facilities. This because conditions forbid sales in Beacon Hill Park.

However, the main thing is to decide whether to accept this cultural grant from Ottawa; duplicate it and build such a terrific attraction to the West Coast as a new building with the magnificent collections we have would be; and that right now before we lose the opportunity.

TAXPAYER.

Surprised

In the Colonist I have read with amazement and surprise various objections expressed to a building of a museum on the summit of Beacon Hill.

To me it is an ideal situation. There could be such an intriguing historical interest within; outwardly, a wonderful view of the ever-changing but eternal sea that has forged man's destiny since the beginning of time.

I am not of the same political faith as Mr. Chant, but I would endorse his suggestion of a provincial museum on Beacon Hill.

DORIS COLLISON, Saseenos.

Park Unique

If the lovers of Beacon Hill Park can be organized into a park protection society, I am willing to join in to sign a declaration that such vandalism will be effected only over our dead bodies.

That man Chant evidently has no qualification for his job. As minister of works he should be the first man to protect this small but very beautiful park which is such a valuable asset to Victoria and so much appreciated by those who constantly use it.

Each year I have been here some improvement has been made by someone who knows his job and evidently takes an artistic pleasure in doing it. I have visited many parks and can say that BHP is unique in character and should remain that way without buildings such as those suggested.

Tom Taylor's suggestion re the motor licence building on Menzies I heartily support. Now that the old buildings have been cleared away from the rear of the Parliament Buildings and that beautiful fountain installed (much thanks to Mr. Bennett) the old red brick barrack building spoils what is, otherwise, a beautiful architectural view.

R. W. STEWART,
1856 Lule Street.

Bank Site

Alderman Toome says the government bank should be in the capital city, Victoria; what better place could they find than the B.C. Electric Building, at Pandora and Blanshard.

The ground floor could be changed; there are two large display windows that could give a lot of space, and save the government a lot of money, in not having to purchase property and put up buildings.

Re the museum Beacon Hill site is a poor spot, windy and cold. Very few people would want to walk up that hill. It is a long walk from town.

There is a large piece of property, corner of Blanshard and Pandora, now used as a parking lot and more old properties could be added to it.

That site would help improve the centre close to city hall and library, good transportation to anywhere.

Just suggestions!

U.K. Education

Concerning university education in Britain, a clause in Mr. Wrixon's letter interested me: "This was possibly true of England prior to 1914." In 1914 I finished my intermediate course in a small island elementary and intermediate school to enter the fourth form of the Kirkwall Grammar School in the Orkney Islands. My teachers who had graduated would have done so, by and large, in the 1905-1910 years.

Of the four teachers in the country school I left, two were MAs. They came of humble parents and were paid respectively $9 and 100 pounds. One of the four island ministers had graduated MA, BD. The island doctor had MA, MB, ChB after his name.

In the town school, I had eight teachers, three with honors degrees, two with MA, BSc, and three with ordinary degrees. No non-graduate taught the fourth form.

The Orkneys at that time had 24,000 people and three senior high schools. There were several junior high schools, or intermediate schools as they were called. Children started at five years; at 14 they had nine years of school.

Nuclear Philosophers Man 'Think Factory'

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Fri, Feb. 14, 1964 5

NEW YORK—Herman Kahn and his staff of 35 work in a converted mental institution. His critics claim that there could hardly be a more appropriate setting.

Kahn and his Hudson Institute, paid $1,000,000 a year by the American government, are nuclear philosophers, a "think factory" systematically exploring the way events may turn and the "possible futures" available.

It was Herman Kahn who helped to inspire Stanley Kubrick, the director of Dr. Strangelove—or How I Stopped Worrying and Learned to Love the Bomb.

In a speech in 1961 he declared that, given $10,000,000,000 and less than 10 years, he could build a "dooms-day machine" which "if detonated would destroy everything in the world." The idea gave Kubrick the most final finale ever.

"There's nothing ridiculous about the dooms-day machine—it's a serious technical possibility," Kahn reiterated last week. He would hook up the device, buried

10,000 feet underground, to a high-speed computer fed with data "so that if the Soviet or any other nation did any one of the following acts—say, explode five bombs over the U.S. or take over Berlin or insult the U.S. ambassador in Laos—it will blow up the world."

The beauty of the computer, he says, would be that unlike people it could not be blackmailed and would have no problems with humanitarian impulses.

The "think factory," 35 miles north of New York City, was formed in 1961 by Kahn, who is its director, Donald Brennan, a mathematician and communications theorist, and Max Singer, a young lawyer who turned analyst.

They believed that little was being done in policy planning—working out how weapons were to be used or not used and why. The results of their analyses are passed on to government agencies.

"Our aim," says Kahn's assistant, Anthony Wiener,

"is purely and simply to think about policies in order to reduce the role of thoughtlessness."

The idea behind the institute's reports is to present to the executive the whole range of possibilities available to it. Brennan, now the institute's president, says:

"We make systematic analyses of many possible alternatives—pleasant and unpleasant—and then, having cleared away some of our own emotional biases, we are able to see more clearly what the choices are and what actions should be taken."

Some of Kahn's critics would prefer to see the emotion put back in the institute's work. Reviewing his book, On Thermo-nuclear War in the Scientific American, James Newman wrote: "Is there really a Herman Kahn? It is hard to believe. This is a moral tract on mass murder, how to plan it, how to commit it, how to get away with it, how to justify it."

Sir Alec Shatters U.S. Hopes

By HAROLD MORRISON
From Washington

The Anglo-American summit conference has shattered any remaining U.S. illusions that the allies somehow could be persuaded to co-operate in mounting an economic blockade against Cuba.

Just before Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home and President Johnson began their two-day talks, there were widely-circulated American reports that the Johnson administration planned to exert new pressure on the allies to restrict trade with the Castro regime.

But in his private discussions with Johnson and his public statements later, Sir Alec made clear Britain wanted no part of discrimination, restrictions or boycotts on trade with Cuba or any other part of the Communist camp.

In fact, Britain planned to step up trade with the Communists, rather than reduce trade. Britain lived by trade, he said, and Britain believed a fat Communist is less likely to be aggressive than a lean, hungry one.

Moreover, in response to the U.S. plea that the allies refrain from providing extensive credit to the Communists, Sir Alec said Britain hopes to land a number of new contracts in Moscow, including chemical plants, and Britain's credit terms in those cases might be extended to 12 or 15 years from the present five.

From the American viewpoint it is difficult to see what Johnson gained from his first formal talks with the British Prime Minister. Sir Alec talked of having achieved harmony with Johnson on the world's big questions, but it appeared the two leaders differ on what these big questions may be.

Sir Alec did not see eye-to-eye with Johnson on Cuba, or on Communist China, or on trade with the Communists. The U.S. opposed admittance of China to the United Nations; Sir Alec said such admittance would be a good thing.

The U.S. maintains a ban on all American trade with China and wants an allied economic blockade against Cuba; Sir Alec said Britain doesn't believe in blockades.

The U.S. wants to see Britain fully support the proposed seagolf, mixed-man North Atlantic nuclear force; Sir Alec said the proposal has political advantages but he still isn't sure of its military merit.

It appears that in their first formal encounter, the prime minister and president sized each other up, pledged to keep the Anglo-American alliance strong but virtually made no changes in the policies that existed before the talks began.

New Policy Imminent

China, Japan Trade Smiles

A new Chinese policy towards Japan is expected to follow negotiations in Peking.

Yugoslav reports from Peking say that a number of eminent Japanese politicians including a former prime minister and two former ministers visited Peking and were received by senior Chinese leaders.

The Yugoslav official news agency reports from Peking that the Japanese are now the most numerous foreign group to visit China. According to this report, during 1963 over 100 Japanese delegations visited China, and during the last three months alone about 1,000 visitors from Japan passed through China.

The report adds that for 1964 the volume of trade between China and Japan is estimated at about $198,000,000,000, the highest volume since the war.

Peace, Stability Threatened

Somalia Cry for Unity Lets in Russia, China

By PATRICK SKALE
from Mogadishu

Somalia's border conflicts with Ethiopia and Kenya are not obscure tribal clashes, fought with bow and spear, which the rest of the world may safely ignore.

Not only do they threaten the peace and stability of East Africa, but, as expressions of frustrated Somali nationalism, they have already provided both Russia and China with a major point of entry into the barren but strategically vital horn of Africa—a vast triangle commanding the mouth of the Red Sea and the western end of the Indian Ocean.

It was no accident that Chou En-lai chose Somalia as the last stop of his two-month African tour. Cold war rivalries as well as Sino-Soviet antagonisms have come to be grafted onto the complex local feuds.

The one issue common to all the 20-odd Somali political parties is the dream of a Greater Somalia including those Somalis now living in the border areas of Ethiopia and Kenya.

On ethnic if not on legal grounds, the Somali case is strong. The republic's present frontiers are artificial, drawn by foreign colonizers. If self-determination were the only principle at stake their immediate revision would be justified.

The Somalis contest the validity of the treaties concluded many years before independence which define their present boundaries. In theory, therefore, Somalia is aggressively expansionist; but in practice her political stance is defensive.

Her people are as one in wanting the unity of all Somalis but the government has not the power either to seize the contested areas or even to negotiate from strength with its two more powerful neighbors.

The recent defence pact between Ethiopia and Kenya has increased Somalia's sense of isolation and vulnerability. So, too, has the widely held view among the Somalis that the United States and Britain prefer to back Ethiopian and Kenyan rather than Somali claims.

This is the background to Somalia's arms deal with the Soviet Union last October. Unable to secure a satisfactory arms offer from the West after over three years of talks, the Somalis turned to Russia which immediately promised massive and rapid assistance.

This stimulated a belated western offer far smaller than the Russian and tactlessly worded in that Britain and the U.S. held themselves free to withdraw if Somalia accepted arms from any other source. These proposals were rejected and Somalia turned to the East.

Within a month some 300 young Somalis were receiving military training in the Soviet Union while arms shipments were arriving off Mogadishu. The Russian deal is estimated to be worth $30,000,000.

Economic aid has been on an equally lavish scale. The Russians are building a port at Berbera opposite Aden as well as meat and fish canning plants, a milk processing factory, a transmitter, a printing press, two hospitals, and several large-scale agricultural development projects.

Somalia is, in fact, one of the handful of countries where Russia is making a major effort.

The Chinese are late starters in Somalia. Whereas the Russians appear to be concentrating on the army the Chinese are making a determined assault on the ministry of information.

They have also offered Somalia a cash grant of $3,000,000 to meet the budget deficit as well as $8,000,000 Swiss francs worth of economic assistance. But no firm decision has yet been made on how this interest-free loan is to be spent.

In Somalia, as throughout Africa, Chinese tactics appear to be to concentrate on propaganda media, on influential individuals ready to accept Chinese money in return for unspecified political favors, and on relatively small-scale, easily completed construction projects such as roads. China is making her presence felt, but she has not yet entered the great power stakes.

These outside influences—many of them beneficial—have not yet had much direct impact on Somalia's political life which is still largely governed by internal tribal and personal rivalries.

But inevitably the local contestants for power tend to adopt cold war labels and to seek support in one or another camp.

Somalia is, however, in no immediate danger of departing radically from her policy of non-alignment, but there are danger signals ahead in the growing distance between the aging ruling group and the rising elite of educated and semi-educated youth, and in the future impact on the domestic balance of power of the return home of cadets now training in Russia.

Elvis Has Trouble With $50,000 Gift

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Coast Guard has refused to permit the Miami Coast Guard auxiliary to accept a former presidential yacht from singer Elvis Presley. Presley had offered to give the vessel, a 165-footer used by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, to the Miami group. Presley bought the ship at an auction for $30,000 and first offered it to the March of Dimes. That charitable group refused the gift, saying the upkeep would be too high.

WASHINGTON — The state department announced it had "uncovered no information which would warrant" revoking the visa of Richard Burton, British actor and friend of actress Elizabeth Taylor.

KINGSTON — Jamaican Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante received an anonymous letter threatening him with death by shooting after parliament passed bills providing heavy mandatory sentences for rape and marijuana offences.

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Lew Ayres, 55, disclosed he was married a week ago to airline stewardess Diana Hall. The marriage is the first for Miss Hall. Ayres previously was married to actresses Lola Lane and Ginger Rogers.

COLORADO SPRINGS — Patrolman Earle Scott didn't recognize the car he ticketed for overtime parking. His wife, Shirley, showed him the $2 ticket when he got home.

WHITE ROCK — Mayor Harry Douglas is pressing for development of a 1,000-acre park as a memorial to assassinated U.S. President John Kennedy. The memorial park would be adjacent to the Peace Arch.

KALASKA, Mich. — Eleven-year-old Richard Tanner accidentally shot away one of his teeth and put a hole in his tongue when his 22-calibre rifle discharged accidentally.

ETON WICK, England — Eric Hughes, an ex-burglar who stole more than $940 cash from Ernest Lynch, was cited as co-respondent in the divorce.

BURTON

case brought by Lynch, who also accused Hughes of making love to his wife after robbing him.

FAIRFIELD, Idaho — A divorced Mrs. Henry Ford II returned to seclusion near the ski slopes. Detroit friends of Mrs. Ford quoted her as stating she was "surprised" at the settlement terms which were reported to be as high as $16,000,000.

VANCOUVER — Lynne Minty, 23, wearing slacks and a shirt, was told by Magistrate Cyril White he would revoke her $1,000 bail if she did not leave the courtroom and return wearing clothes "befitting the dignity of the court."

NOTTINGHAM, England — Tattooist Dennis Dilks, 32, was cleared without trial of indecently assaulting a 14-year-old boy by tattooing a nude woman on his arm.

TORONTO — Former boxer Douglas (Rocky) Thibault, 36, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary when he pleaded guilty to illegal possession of drugs.

DALLAS — Jack Ruby burst into tears at the thought he might have brought shame on Dallas by shooting accused presidential assassin Lee Oswald. "I love this city," he wept, at a hearing to decide venue for his trial.

LONDON — Queen Mother Elizabeth is making "good progress" in her recovery from an appendicitis operation last week.

ROME — Pope Paul held a private, 20-minute audience for 70 RCN personnel. The Canadians were led by Commander R. P. Welland, senior Canadian officer afloat (Atlantic).

PITTSBURGH — The Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company is being sued for $1,000,000 by truck driver Anthony Frances, 57, who says smoking Chesterfield and L. and M. cigarettes for nearly 30 years gave him throat cancer.

NEW YORK — There's a new boss behind the old faces of the bearded Smith Brothers, William and Andrew, on the cough drop box. Smith Brothers Incorporated of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., merged into the Warner-Lambert pharmaceutical company of Morris Plains, N.J.

Sugar Boycott Urged From March 2 to 9

Opposition forces in the legislature can "keep on beating the same old drums" if they want, but "you'd better get some Beale wigs and come out with a new song," William Speare (S.C. Cariboo) said yesterday.

The Socred member told the legislature that the Opposition is "weak on debate" this year and that its members are "frustrated and disappointed" with themselves because they can find so little to criticize in the government's plans.

He read in the House a letter from housewives in his constituency who urged housewives throughout the province to avoid using sugar March 2 to 9, in protest to fluctuating sugar prices and a rising cost of living.

The government should look into the idea of forming a consumer price commission to investigate what is really going on in the field of consumer goods, because working people are concerned about prices of sugar, drugs and gasoline, he said.

Kidd Keeps Record Clean Never Loses in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Bruce Kidd of Toronto's East York Track Club held on to his record of never being beaten at Madison Square Garden by winning the two-mile run in a pulsating finish in eight minutes, 42.6 seconds at the New York Athletic Club games Thursday night.

TOM O'HARA ... record mile

Kidd, 20-year-old University of Toronto student and winner of this same Toussaint Cup two-mile in both 1962 and 1963, took the lead late, lost it, then bolled from behind to nip Bob Schul of Oxford, Ohio, by two feet.

Ron Clarke of Australia, who recently broke the world outdoor six-mile and 10,000-yard records in Melbourne, was third and Pat Clohesy of the Texas Olympic Club fourth.

Schul's time was 8:42.8, Clarke's 8:43.8 and Clohesy's 8:50.8.

NEVER LOST

In nine starts in New York in four years, Kidd has never lost a race, winning eight at the Garden track and one at Van Cortlandt Park in the Bronx. He holds the Garden and meet two-mile records of 8:39, set last year.

Another Torontonian, Bill Crothers, won the 800-yard event earlier in the evening in one minute, 50.8 seconds—one-tenth of a second off the meet record.

RECORD MILE

Little Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola raced to a record indoor mile of 3:56.6.

O'Hara, who runs with an odd, arm-flapping gait, his arms flailing and his hands occasionally plucking at his running tights as if he was trying to keep his pants from falling down, was aided by a brilliant bit of pacing by John Camien of Kansas State.

O'Hara, a frail-looking fellow who now runs with the world's best at the premier distance of the mile, lurched off Camien's shoulder through eight laps of the 11-lap course.

He then unleashed his killing kick, taking the lead with three laps to go and flashing around the track to a 65-yard victory.

CAME FROM LAST

In the 800, Crothers moved from last place in the four-man field during the final lap. He passed pace-setter Robin Lingle of Missouri and won by a yard.

Villanova's Noel Carol was third and Ed Duchini of Georgetown fourth.

Crothers, 23, also of the East York club, bettered the 1:51 time in which he won the same event here last year.

The meet record of 1:50.7 was set in 1957 by Arnie Sowell.

Crothers, the Canadian champion, also set U.S. National Amateur Athletic Union indoor record of 1:50 for 800 yards in the Millrose Games here earlier this year.

Big Bob Hayes of Florida A. and M. equalled the world record of six seconds in the 60-yard dash.

Hockey Bookies Nabbed

CHICAGO (AP)—Three members of an alleged bookmaking ring which is said to have handled bets estimated at $40,000 at Chicago Black Hawks hockey games were arrested Wednesday night and each was charged with being the keeper of a gambling house.

They were seized in the Chicago Stadium during a National Hockey League game between the Black Hawks and New York Rangers, won by Chicago, 5-2.

Police said five bettors also were arrested and were charged with gambling.

Sgt. William Maloney said the three alleged bookmakers had been under surveillance for nearly a month. Maloney said they carried $1,200 when arrested.

X-Rays disclosed both had fractured cheekbones and will be out of action for an indefinite period.

THIRD PERIOD

1 — Detroit, Smith (10) (Ullman) 5:11

2 — Detroit, Ullman (13) (MacDonald) 10:02

Penalties — Kennedy 8:46, Roivin 12:08

Attendance — 8,000

Continuing their sudden about-face, the Wings last night ran their longest win streak of the season to four games by getting by the Bruins, 4-1, before 8,661 Detroit fans.

Result left Wings seven points ahead of the fifth-place New York Rangers, who were a point ahead when the Wings got untracked. Only four points in front are the beleaguered Stanley Cup champions, Toronto's currently punchless Maple Leafs.

SCORES TWICE

Gordie Howe, who has been slowly coming out of what was for him a rather lengthy period of little production, set up the second Detroit goal and then with the Bruins threatening to come all the way back, scored twice within two minutes in the third period.

Howe stole the puck away from a pair of Bruins at the Boston goal and quickly rammed the puck past Ed Johnston to make it 3-1. He was back almost immediately for the absolute clincher, again beating Johnston with a typically swift finishing play.

Goals were the 17th and 18th of the season for Howe, bringing his lifetime goal total to 558 and his lifetime point total to 1,262.

The game was costly to both clubs, each losing a regular brushed aside any straight money deal to buy the Toronto left winger.

"Greenbacks won't play hockey for you," Ballard said in an interview. "If you remember, we were once offered $1,000,000 for him."

Imlach gave out orders Thursday re-uniting Mahovlich with his former linemates, Toronto attack.

Teammates Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks have set up a two-way scrap for individual scoring honors in the National Hockey League.

With Montreal's Jean Beliveau slowed a bit since the first of the year, Mikita and Hull have slowly pulled away. Mikita is four points to the good with 30 goals and 40 assists while Hull, whose 34 goals are tops in that department, has a five-point bulge on Beliveau.

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers has been moving up, but too slowly to yet gain serious consideration. At 58 points, he is 12 behind Mikita with a net gain of only two points in the past three and a half weeks.

Police said the men apparently accepted bets from $10 to $5,000 on individual goals, scored, points made during game periods and the outcome of the game.

Charged with being the keeper of a gambling house were Morris Rosenthal, 60, and John C. Mann, 35, both of Chicago, and David Roth, 49, of suburban Melrose Park.

Clubhouse Lawyer

SEATTLE (AP)—Bill MacFarland, captain of the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League, is a lawyer now.

But he won't use the title or the techniques on NHL referees.

"You can't change a referee's decision, no matter how good a lawyer you are," he said Thursday after it was announced he had passed the Washington state bar examination.

MacFarland, 31, has been working for the bar exam for the last four years while keeping up his hockey career.

Two years ago he was the league's top scorer and most valuable player, but he doesn't see too much hockey ahead.

"I don't know if my legs will hold up much longer or not," he said.

Just One Job For Poile Now

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Norman (Bud) Poile was ousted as coach of the sagging San Francisco Seals Thursday and replaced by National Hockey League veteran Nick Mickoski.

Poile had major-league hockey experience with Toronto, Chicago, Detroit, New York and Boston.

Coleman E. Hall, president of the Western Hockey League franchise, said Poile would remain as the Seals' manager, a job he has also been handling.

The Seals, who won the league championship after finishing second in the WHL Southern Division last year, have lost eight straight in their most recent slump. They are 15th place in the six-club league.

In explaining his decision, Hall said: "Hockey today is big business, and the manager has enough to do without worrying about coaching. Now Bud can devote full time to his duties in the front office."

Poile had major-league hockey experience with Toronto, Chicago, Detroit, New York and Boston.

Johnny Logan Off to Japan

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Johnny Logan, 36, former infielder for Milwaukee Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates, said Thursday night he has signed a one-year contract to play with Nankai Hawks of Osaka in Japan's Central League.

Logan, who played for the Braves from 1958 to 1962, was a .250 hitter with 10 home runs and 40 RBIs in 1963.

B.C. Curlers Win Alberta

GRAND PRAIRIE—A British Columbia rink won the Alberta women's curling championship here Thursday. Mrs. Mickey Downs of Dawson Creek, B.C., defeated Mrs. Barbara Higgins of Hinton, Alta., 12-10, to finish a round-robin series with three victories and one loss.

WINNIPEG — Defending champion Hersh Lerner and Bob Stannard, both of Winnipeg, reached the semi-finals of the Manitoba curling championships last night.

Final will be played Friday and Saturday.

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. — Mrs. Anne Phillips skipped her rink to the Quebec women's championship Thursday and now heads for the Canadian final in Edmonton starting Feb. 24.

MELFORD, Sask. — Moe Valade of Saskatoon needed overtime to defeat Syd Gardiner, Eston, 5-4, and retain the northern Saskatchewan championship Wednesday.

Valade meets Ernie Richardson in a best-of-three provincial final in Saskatoon, starting tonight.

The three officials named to reorganize the IOC secretariat are Mayer's younger brother, Albert, president of the Swiss Olympic Committee; Marc Hodler, Swiss president of the International Ski Federation, and Mohammed Taher, special assistant to IOC President Avery Brundage of Chicago.

All three are members of the IOC.

The reasons for Mayer's resignation or for the reorganization were not announced.

Reuters news agency quoted Mayer as saying he resigned because the job of chancellor had come to involve too much work, causing him to neglect his own affairs.

Ontario Government Kills Gardens Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Maple Leaf Gardens lost out Thursday in a bid to add another 4,000 seats to its present 13,718 by building extensions over the streets immediately to the north and south of it.

The legislature's private bills committee voted against the proposal included in a bill put forth by the city of Toronto, which supported the extensions to the Gardens.

All three parties expressed opposition to the encroachment on the streets, although some Progressive Conservative members—notably Syl Apps, a former Toronto Maple Leafs star in the National Hockey League—spoke in favor of it.

The planned extension would have jutted out 22 feet over the sidewalk and road on Carleton Street to the south and Wood Street to the north.

THE Arnold PALMER METHOD

HOW TO RID YOURSELF OF SLICING

Poor or weak hand action can cause a slice, where the ball curves to the right.

Meaning impact, the hands cause the club to lag on the downswing (P1).

At impact, therefore, the face of the club doesn't meet the ball squarely. Instead it is opened and imparts left-to-right spin to the ball (P2).

How to remedy this? On the downswing (P3), just after your hands get below your shoulder, concentrate on "throwing" your hands down toward the ball. It works; try it.

Some Changes Made In United's Lineup

Pat Mulcahy and Henri Vanderhorst will move into the starting lineup on Saturday when Victoria United goes out to improve its hold on fourth place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

United currently shares the last playoff spot with North Shore but has played two more games than the Mainland XI and can not afford to pass up any points. But defeat could be even more of a setback to Seattle's Hungarians, who trail United by four points and who would just about be out of it if they were to lose tomorrow.

One of United's changes is forced, the other designed to add some scoring punch.

Family Matter

Mother and daughter team up to improve their fivepin bowling scores to try winning expense-paid holidays at New York World Fair and Bermuda in third annual Player's Bowling Festival. Mrs. L. R. Warholm and 18-year-old Vana of 2511 Cranmore, Victoria, are regular bowlers at Gibson's Bowladrome. Entrants for Festival must sign up with their league secretaries before the end of this week.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Those who haven't been hitting spring salmon in Saanich Inlet probably haven't been fishing deep enough.

"The springs have gone right down," says Jimmy Gilbert. He has been getting them in the early morning with 400 feet of wire line and during the day he has been dropping to 450 feet with a planer and 250 feet with four pounds of trip weight.

Main concentration of springs up to 15 pounds has been from Quarry Bay to the Stone House. Ernie Hebrock and Bill Gamble limited Tuesday to those waters with eight between 14 and five pounds.

Ray Smith got a 15.8-pounder Sunday.

A slow troll, with flasher and minnow, or small strip have been best combinations.

Best bites have been on the change of tides which on Saturday and Sunday will be around seven in the morning and again around noon.

The odd fairly good-sized spring has been taken from Indian Bay and Tod Inlet, but not many. Bob Redgrave and Alf Klinch are among those who have found them in those waters.

There have been very few bluebacks showing anywhere in the Inlet, but they have still been getting them on gizen and white and red and white bucktails.

Whittaker Point out to Senanus Island has been one hot spot and Paul Medrick found enough for limit catches on bucktail between the White Lady and McKenzie Bay.

Art Hall reports a school of blues moving back and forth between Goldstream Island and the White Lady. There have not been too many springs in Finlayson Arm, but those that have been taken have been mostly caught on 150 feet and a planer in the Misery Bay-Chesterfield Rock-Goldstream Island triangle.

Commercial trollers have been hitting springs deep in Satellite Channel. Crofton and Chelmainus are still good for blues. A few blues have been taken off Coal Island.

There has been some fair spring salmon fishing in Saanichton Spit-Sidney Island waters.

Bob Wright reports some fair spring salmon fishing for 10 to 12-pounders off Ten Mile Point and The Gap at Oak Bay. They are catching them fairly deep and on big strip and minnows.

Pedder Bay hasn't been too hot, but some springs are being taken right in the kelp.

Sooke hasn't been too hot, but there are still shrimp in the basin. There are some springs in the bay at Port Renfrew, but it is far from hot.

Victoria waterfront has been providing some spring salmon fishing and Jim Worawick reports the odd good-sized blueback brought in Wednesday to his West Bay Marina and springs up to 12.8 pounds Sunday.

Freshwater reports are getting poorer and it appears a fresh storm is needed to bring in a new run of steelies.

On Saturday we ran into Rob Lindsay, Ron Black, John Price and party in the San Juan-Harris Creek area. They had five steelies, but they had worked hard for them and they weren't fresh runs. Rivers were a little low. On Wednesday it was snowing in that area and the Shawngnan-Bear Creek Road could present difficulties at the weekend.

Some of the experts got steelies on the Cowichan at the weekend, especially in the riverbottom area, but it took a lot of fishing. Success has been steadily tapering off. Lou Walbel was one of the lucky anglers.

Quamichan Lake has been good for trout on lake troll and white and yellow flies, trolled or cast. Shawngnan has been giving up trout. Nanaimo River has been pretty good for steelheading.

Murray Cree reports lots of fish in the Englishman, Little and Big Qualicum Rivers, but anglers have had to search for them. This week they have been going for spinners and T-Spoons in preference to roe. There are still lots of trout in lower reaches.

Bob and Florie Bugg, fishing with John Ebert found the Campbell and Quinsam Rivers hot at the weekend, but Ebert reports most of the fish have now gone upstream. Steelheading in that area has been so hot nobody has been trying for trout in the lakes, or salmon in the salt chuck.

Steelhead are being taken in the Gold, but it has dropped off somewhat.

Ray Fontaine says the salmon were hot a week or 10 days ago, but not many are being taken now. Main run is still to come. Don Sprout and J. Herbin lead his White River Court derby, each with an 18.8-pound steelie.

A few brant have been seen at Crofton and Qualicum, but the best shooting time is still a couple of weeks away.

High Schools Up In Arms Over Friday Night Grid TV

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Broadcasting Company announced Thursday it is going ahead with plans to televise five Friday night National Football League games despite protests from colleges and high schools.

The colleges and high schools insist it is an infringement on their traditional Friday night domain and violates a 1961 federal statute dealing with anti-trust legislation in sports.

INDIVIDUAL CLUBS

ABC said there is no violation because the programming deals are being made with the individual clubs and not with the league itself.

The particular games, or clubs involved, were not named. It is understood one of the teams will be Cleveland. Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, said:

"The league has no contract with the ABC."

NO PACKAGE

"The law of 1961 states that the National Football League cannot make a package deal with a single network to televise games on Friday night, Saturday afternoon or Saturday night."

"Also, there is a specification that no game can be televised within 75 miles of a college game. If the deal is made between ABC and the member clubs individually, the 75-mile rule will be rigidly observed."

The plan drew blasts from both the colleges and high schools.

Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference and director of the college TV program, said he was "disturbed by the report."

"This is a matter for inquiry and investigation. It is a problem for the lawyers."

He said the plan violated the spirit, if not the wording, of the 1961 law.

A similar protest came from the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, with a membership of more than 12,000.

The five games in question were held out of the big package sold recently to Columbia Broadcasting System for $14,000,000 a year.

Cliff Fagan, federation executive secretary, said he will send a letter of complaint to Rozelle as his group's first step in "protecting the interests" of membership schools.

The five games in question were held out of the big pack-

Hotel Room Rates Stars

VANCOUVER (CP)—Know how to tell a super-star from an ordinary player at baseball spring training?

Take a look at their living quarters.

Bob Lasko, 24-year-old Vancouver right hander who's trying to make the major leagues with the Los Angeles Dodgers system after four years in the New York Yankees chain, found out about it last spring at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"SOMETHING BETTER"

Lasko was sharing a room with Jim Bouton, another young pitcher who made it with the Yankees. He recalls that the room cost $40 a day.

But if you're an ace left hander, you get something better.

"Whitney Ford had one that cost $3 bucks a day."

And if you're an all-time great who has graduated to coaching ranks, you really live in style.

"You know what? That Joe DiMaggio stayed in a suite that cost a thousand bucks a week. Man!"

Lasko, a 200-pound fast-baller, has been working out in a gym here to get ready for spring training. He has been advised he'll be playing for the Dodgers' No. 1 farm club at Spokane.

Last year he pitched 170 innings with Richmond and Augusta and struck out 170 and walked 63. And in exhibition games against major league hitters he allowed only three runs in 30 innings.

"Sometimes there's a pretty thin line between making it and not making it," he says, recalling how in past seasons a pulled chest muscle, appendix operation and a slump prevented him from breaking into the Yankee's lineup.

Two Rods One Fish The Problem

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—An angler fishing off the east coast of New Zealand's North Island hauled in an eight-pound snapper mistaken by a line to a rod and reel.

Report of the find brought claims from two fishermen who had lost rods. Both gave extremely accurate descriptions of the gear, even to the 150-foot nylon line.

The equipment went to a fisherman who had lost an identical brand of rod the previous day two miles from the scene of the catch. The other had lost his 30 miles away and this seemed too long a haul for the snapper.

Finley Finished?

Another Clash In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Owner Charles O. Finley of Kansas City Athletics and other American League club owners appear on the way to another collision after a session here Wednesday left Finley and the city still far apart over a stadium lease.

In the first collision Jan. 16 in New York, the owners flatly rejected Finley's bid to move to Louisville and by a 9-1 vote ordered him to sign a lease in Kansas City by Feb. 1 or face expulsion from the league.

FAMED LAWYER

The deadline was extended to Saturday after Finley said he might take his case to court and hired Louis Nizer, famed trial attorney.

It's doubtful a lease will be signed before the deadline and the league is expected to call another meeting for next week. Finley obtained a firm commitment from Oakland, Calif., Jan. 27 and it's likely he'll ask the league for permission to move the club to Oakland.

TWO CHOICES

The club owners doubtless will first try to get Finley and the city together on a compromise three-year pact. Failing that, the owners would then seem to have only two other choices:

1. Grant him permission to move the club to Oakland.
2. Follow through with their threat to take over Finley's franchise, thereby risking a law suit.

NO SUIT

The owners want to avoid a law suit if possible. All talks of a compromise evaporated at the session Wednesday.

Hockey History

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Hockey history of a sort was made in Kingston recently when Lancaster Dodgers filed an official protest claiming the referee short-changed them eight minutes in penalties.

The Dodgers, who lost their Ottawa-St. Lawrence Senior League game to Kingston Aces 3-3, were unhappy about a two-minute bench penalty against them. They wanted a 10-minute misconduct instead.

The reason for their displeasure was that the minor sentence left them short-handed while a misconduct penalty would have enabled them to keep six men on the ice.

Champion Milan Sidelined

CP from Reuters-AP
MILAN — Five-time champion Real Madrid of Spain Thursday eliminated defending champion Milan of Italy from this season's European Cup soccer competition.

Milan won the second leg of the two-game home-and-home quarter-final here 2-0. But the Spaniards, 4-1 winners of the first leg, qualified on aggregate 4-3 to enter the semi-final.

The second and last goal for Milan in Thursday's match was scored by Brazilian centre forward Jose (Mazola) Altafini, a former player of Sao Paulo's Palmeiras and one of the Brazilian national squad, at the first minute of the second half.

Left half Giovanni Lodetti had scored Milan's first goal at the seventh minute of the first half.

UNDER PRESSURE

Milan kept the Spanish net under steady pressure throughout the first half. Real Madrid — full of veteran players including Uruguayan-born Jose Semamaria, Argentine-born Alfredo Di Stefano and Hungarian-born Ferenc Puskas — played a defensive game.

The first Italian goal came after many exchanges close to the Spanish net. Lodetti banged a ground-grazing shot into the left corner past Spanish goalie Vicente.

Malahat Ensign Furled

The white ensign came down at the old Customs Building on Wharf Street yesterday at sunset, signifying the end of more than seven years' occupancy by the Victoria division of the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve.

HMCS Malahat, scheduled for de-commissioning March 31 under recently announced defence economies, has moved to temporary quarters in HMCS Naden.

The move is one of several gone through by the reserve division since it was re-commissioned in 1947.

G. A. V. Thomson and John D. Garvard.

HMCS Malahat, scheduled for de-commissioning March 31 under recently announced defence economies, has moved to temporary quarters in HMCS Naden.

The division was commissioned on St. George's Day, April 23, 1947, in HMC Dockyard.

Two years later it acquired an Algerine class minesweeper, HMCS Sault Ste. Marie, as a training tender.

In 1951 Malahat was shifted to Moresby House on Esquimalt Road.

The division was crowded into the basement in 1953 when part of the building was converted into RCN Wren quarters.

Another blow came in 1955 when Sault Ste. Marie was paid off.

When the Customs Building was renovated in 1956 at a cost of more than $60,000 the division moved in and has occupied the Wharf Street premises ever since, with training carried on mainly in Naden.

JOINED YACHTERS
Earlier history of naval reserves in Victoria is equally checked. A group of volunteers joined forces with yacht club enthusiasts as early as 1913 and provided about 150 officers and men for immediate duty when the First World War broke out.

The reserves were disbanded in 1919 and were not re-formed until 1940 when a division was established on Government Street, mainly for recruiting purposes.

Malahat got its name during the wartime period. It is really a corruption of the name of a tribe of Esquimalt Indians, the Malakuts.

The recruiting centre was closed in 1946 and the reserve division was reorganized the following year.

Gun Alarm Washout
DALLAS (UPI) — A matron guarding the door at Jack Ruby's court hearing pulled a pistol from the purse of a woman who was about to enter the courtroom.

In December, a matron had found an unloaded snub-nose pistol in the purse of a former stripper.

This time, however, the weapon shot water, not bullets. The ministerial student's wife, explained she found her son playing with it in church and took it away from him.

Lowering of white ensign at HMCS Malahat at sunset yesterday marked end of Victoria's naval reserve division. Commanding officer of unit, Capt. Peter Thomas salutes (at centre). Lt.-Cmdr. C. E. Lord, right, and LS David Woodruff are RCN personnel.—(Bud Kinsman)

Even without Wampo, Lungnak and Trashi Phub,

Seagram's V.O. is still the largest-selling Canadian Whisky in the world!

There are towns in Tibet where no V.O. is sold. But these are greatly outnumbered by the cities, towns and hamlets in 130 countries where V.O. is sold. In fact, more Seagram's V.O. is sold throughout the world than any other whisky exported from any country.

Why? We think it must be the quality of the product. The mellow flavour of Seagram's V.O. combines brilliance of taste with lightness of tone—and this balance of good taste never varies. As a result, V.O. is enjoyed by a world of people from Karachi to Kingston. So remember...V.O., V.O., where ever you are!

Three Impaired Drivers Fined $400, Fourth Jailed

Liquor, Cash Stolen

Four separate breaking and enterings in the Greater Victoria area overnight Wednesday netted thieves $287 in cash, two bottles of liquor and three packages of cigarettes, police said yesterday.

Biggest haul was from the home of G. E. Forster, 264 Crease, where thieves took $140 and the liquor and cigarettes. They entered the house through an insecure rear door.

About $70 was taken from the home of E. Brown, 901 Hereward, by thieves who forced a lock and ransacked two rooms before finding the money.

A plate glass door was smashed to gain entry to Bryson's Children's Wear, 3011 Cadboro Bay Road, where thieves took $37 in cash.

Thieves forced a kitchen window to enter the home of Mrs. J. B. Thomson, 2278 Dunlevy, and steal $40 in American money.

Three men who pleaded guilty to impaired driving were fined $400 each yesterday, and a fourth was sentenced to 28 days in jail.

Two others faced trials on the same charge, but neither trial was completed.

Bernard C. Bowcott, 2513 Shakespeare, pleaded guilty in city police court to his second charge of impaired driving, and was sentenced to 28 days.

Court was told Bowcott was checked by police when stopped in the intersection of Pandora and Government early yesterday. He was stumped over his steering wheel with the ignition turned on, but the motor was not running.

Asked by police why he was stopped in the intersection, he replied, "Am I?"

He had previously been convicted on the same charge in 1958.

Arthur Porter, 624 Admirals, and Frederick A. Post, 1925 Newton, were fined $400 each in city court, but were allowed to keep their driver's licences for business purposes only. The Plea was reserved in city court for a man charged with uttering two forged cheques to a total value of $65. George A. Auclair was remanded to Feb. 18 for plea.

Open House Set At UBC March 7

An open house March 7 will mark the beginning of University of British Columbia Day, proclaimed this week by J. F. English, deputy minister of education.

The two-day open house will be officially opened by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes at a ceremony in the university stadium.

The theme this year will be "the university—a partner in the community's progress" and will attempt to acquaint the public with UBC's present activities and future capabilities.

Highlights of the two-day affair will include handicraft displays from underdeveloped countries and demonstrations of water-bombing techniques by forestry students.

Perpetual Emotion

Valiant wins hearts and influences people. Introduce any average man to a brand-new '64 Valiant, retire discreetly, and—WHAM!—within seconds, you've got a couple of inseparables. The beauty of it is that Valiant has exactly the same effect on gals, too. Seems as if there's something about the way a Valiant looks, or maybe it's the way it rides, or handles. Could be those stylish interiors. Likely it's all of these things plus that 5-year—50,000-mile power-train warranty. Whatever it is, Valiant knows how to make hearts grow fonder. Ask anyone who owns a Valiant... any year... any model... learn what "perpetual emotion" really means.

B.C. Pays Bonus On Break-Up Of Families

The B.C. government is paying a bonus on common law relationships and the break-up of families, NDP welfare critic David Barrett charged in the legislature yesterday.

He appealed to the government to stop branding welfare criticism as "cheap politics" and start taking a look at the problems.

"Let's stop playing political games and let's sit down and do some work—that's what we're here for."

Under existing welfare policies, he charged, a couple living in a common law relationship can get $122 a month in social assistance, while a married couple gets only $103.

By the same token, he continued, a mother with four children gets social assistance amounting to $168 a month but, if the family breaks up and the children become charges of the government, they receive monthly benefits totalling $320 and the mother gets $66.

"We pay $386 to keep a family broken up but only $168 to keep it together," the NDP member said.

The break-up of such families was further encouraged by regulations applying to the mother's earnings.

Mr. Barrett said she can earn only $20 a month over the $168 social assistance through her own initiative. If she earns more, assistance is reduced accordingly.

The government was telling such people "if you show any initiative you'll be sorry—we'll cut off your welfare."

Master's Degree

Mr. Barrett, a one-time provincial social worker with a master's degree, challenged the government to activate its standing committee on education and welfare so some "non-partisan" solutions could be worked out.

Social Credit is always ready to subsidize physical resources but not human resources, he said.

The government was "so smart" it subsidized production of iron ore which goes to Japan to be made into steel which is then sold back to British Columbia.

"We are outsmart those insatiable Orientals," he said amid laughter from opposition benches.

Instead of solving social problems the government was creating new ones.

The government had made glowing political statements about northern developments and so induced workers to flock into the north seeking jobs that weren't there.

Before the plans of Wenner-Gren had folded, the premier had said of the proposed Pacific Northern Railway "This railroad will never stop until it reaches the Alaska border," Mr. Barrett charged.

"Hundreds went up there looking for jobs. You created whole new problems of itinerant political wanderers."

Force Them Back

With one hand the government sent workers north and with the other it tried to force them back south, he charged, citing a recent welfare policy which limits assistance to jobless persons north of Dawson Creek.

Jobless travelling north of Dawson Creek were given a week's board and then nothing. He drew snickers from both sides of the house when he advised the government to give some of its backbenchers a chance to run Welfare Minister Black's department.

In 1960 Mr. Black had been critical of magistrates for not placing more juvenile offenders on probation, he said.

"How could they be put on probation, there were no juvenile probation officers on provincial staff—until yesterday."

On Wednesday the government had brought in a bill extending the jurisdiction of its existing probation force to juveniles.

"As for girls, there is not one female probation officer in British Columbia, adult or juvenile, provincial or city."

He charged that the number of welfare department social workers in B.C. had increased by only eight in 12 years.

In 1952 there had been one social worker for every 5,100 people and now there was one to every 7,500.

Mr. Black, he charged, repeatedly announced the importance of "a new approach" to the problems of welfare.

Last year the minister had promised "a whole new approach" but this week had said there was only a "possibility of a new approach."

Speakers Today

Speakers at today's sitting of the legislature will be Arthur Turner (NDP, Vancouver East), Gordon Gibson (L, North Vancouver), Dan Campbell (SC, Comox) and Charles MacIsaac (SC, Burnaby).

In the Legislature

Pioneer's Daughter Greeted by MLAs

Miss Lottie Bowron, whose father, John Bowron, was one of the famous Overlanders who trekked across Canada to the Barkerville gold fields in 1863, paid a visit to the provincial legislature yesterday.

Miss Bowron assisted in the government's recent Barkerville restoration program, and is spending the winter at the Strathcona Hotel. On her first visit yesterday to the current session of the legislature, she was the guest of Deputy Speaker William Speare (SC, Cariboo) and Mrs. Speare.

She smiled appreciatively from the gallery as she was recognized from the floor of the house and greeted with a round of desk-thumping by the members.

Esquimalt Seated MLA Herbert Bruch told the Speaker yesterday he was pleased to see a group of students from Milnes' Landing High School at Sooke, in the galleries.

Thirty-five students from the school were taken on a tour of the legislative chamber, the provincial library and archives. In the archives, the youngsters showed keen interest in books about the early history of schools in the Sooke area.

Ratio of voters to MLAs in Victoria is a prime example of the need for electoral redistribution in B.C., an NDP member told the House yesterday.

David Barrett said his riding of Dewdney numbers 39,000 voters and has one voice in the legislature while Victoria boasts only 32,000 voters and has three MLAs.

Agriculture Minister Frank of hard liquor on Sundays and a crackdown on slow drivers.

The government should consider the feasibility of granting long-term leases of 21 years to private investors for development of B.C.'s large and small parks, said the Lilloet MLA.

He also called for the sale

Private Enterprise Suggested To Develop Provincial Parks

It is time something is done about slow-poke drivers who go 30 miles an hour in a 60-mile-an-hour zone, piling up traffic behind them "sometimes a mile long."

He said he agrees with those who want the laws changed to allow purchasing of drinks on Sundays, "but not the beer parlors." A start toward relaxation of the law could be made in dining rooms, he said.

Replied to Opposition criticism of a law that requires motorists who strike cattle on a highway to pay full damages to the farmer, the minister said signs warning of an "open range" on the highway aren't official.

Leo Nimaick (NDP, Cranbrook) remarked that the point was that horses and cattle "are still on the highways."

"Well, who was here first?" countered Mr. Richter.

The minister said he saw nothing particularly wrong with the damages arrangement. And in some places the cattle had to cross highways to reach water.

He said farm animals weren't the only ones being killed on the roads.

Mr. Richter replied that if people in the Cranbrook area really were concerned they could ask the province to declare it a "pound district," where farm animals would be prohibited from public roads.

Roundabout Doomed, Says Gagliardi

Wider Pat Bay Highway Hinted

By JACK FREY

Highways Minister Gagliardi hinted yesterday the Patricia Bay Highway might be widened to four lanes instead of being moved, as earlier suggested.

The basically two-lane route used to be popular for Sunday afternoon drives in the Saanich Peninsula, before it became a vital link in the Victoria-Vancouver highway-ferry system.

Now pressure is mounting for its improvement — by widening or by constructing another road parallel to the existing highway.

Mr. Gagliardi, chatting with a reporter outside the legislative chamber yesterday, said: "There is every possibility the Patricia Bay Highway is being considered for four lanes instead of moving it someplace else."

This would be accomplished "by widening the shoulders, if it is necessary."

Asked for his opinion of the city's effort to eliminate the old Fountain Circle traffic bottleneck, the highways minister said the new setup is "fair, but doesn't answer all the problems — and is inadequate now."

"It's a kind of complicated thing in a complicated area. It answers the problem for the moment but it will definitely have to be changed one of these days," he said.

There are just "too many highways coming into one area," and some of the roads should be moved away, "to create a complete, proper intersection" at Douglas and Hillside, Mr. Gagliardi said.

Chief Overridden

Council Allows Taximan's Appeal

City council yesterday allowed the appeal of a city taxi driver against Police Chief John Gregory's order revoking his chauffeur's licence.

The police chief, acting on authority contained in a section of the Motor Vehicles Act, declared Maurice Kozak an "unfit driver" Feb. 6, following a traffic conviction.

Chief Gregory supplied council with a long list of Mr. Kozak's previous traffic convictions during a 10-year period to substantiate the action taken. The police chief said, the taxi-driver had been warned several times before his licence was revoked.

Last night Chief Gregory told the Colonist: "I did what I thought best. This man took his appeal to city council which saw fit to give him a second chance. That's council's prerogative. I will continue to watch the situation and report to council as is my duty."

First Such Incident

It was the first occasion on which such an appeal had ever come before city council. The Act stipulates that the only appeal is to council, whose decision is final.

After deciding to allow the taxi-driver's plea for "one more chance" council unanimously approved a resolution commending Chief Gregory "for his vigilance" and explaining that aldermen acted "out of compassion for a man who stood to lose his livelihood."

Council added that "further action" in cases of this nature would be left in the hands of the chief of police.

It also issued a blunt warning to Mr. Kozak that if his licence was again revoked for similar cause his second appeal would not receive a sympathetic hearing.

Livelihood Involved

Council said it did not condone Mr. Kozak's lengthy list of traffic offences and it "recognized the seriousness of many of them" but nevertheless granted this appeal because his livelihood was involved.

Several aldermen expressed shock when they heard that local taxi-drivers who own their own cars, in busy periods may work 30 hours or more at a stretch.

At the suggestion of Ald. Robert Baird, it was decided to review the city's bylaw covering taxi operations. City solicitor T. P. O'Grady, however, advised council that it had no power to regulate the hours of self-employed drivers.

Mr. Kozak told council that only a few months ago he had, with the help of friends, raised enough money to purchase his own taxi-cab, which he operated in association with Arenaway Taxi. He said that he had never been charged with a liquor or criminal offence.

Kidnap

Victim In Hospital

A man Vancouver police said was unmarked after he told them he was kidnapped by two men and hit on the head, was in Rest Haven Hospital with concussion yesterday.

Leroy Charles Parks, 1205 Juno, a crewman aboard CGS Cammell, was flown to hospital by helicopter after he began to have trouble with his vision.

He was in satisfactory condition last night.

He told Vancouver police he had been kidnapped in a car by two men, hit on the head and pushed into a lane Wednesday night.

He was unable to describe his assailants.

He told police there had been no attempt at robbery.

Six to Seek Queen Title

Six University of Victoria women will vie for the title of Victoria's Queen of the Daffodils in a contest being staged by the new Mayfair shopping centre.

The queen contest is planned to coincide with the Victoria Spring Flower Festival March 25 to April 4.

Colorful Chinatown Lions, at doorway of Glengarry Hospital, perform ceremonial New Year's dance for Chinese patients.—(Bud Kinsman)

Lion Dragon-Danced

A giant, ornately-decorated lion danced gaily to the beat of a big drum outside the glass-door of Glengarry Hospital, 1780 Fairfield Road, yesterday. Inside, a group of Chinese patients looked on eagerly.

The "dance of the lion" performed by colorfully-dressed members of the Victoria Chinatown Lions led by their chairman Jack Tang was to mark Chinese New Year's Day. The lion is a legendary, celestial creature in Chinese lore and dances only on special occasions.

Chinese Celebrate New Year's Day

Yesterday members of Victoria's Chinese Community celebrated the beginning of the Year of the Dragon—4662—with a day off work. Stores and shops closed and Chinese families feasted on raw sugar cane, pomeles, calladium and torus and other specially-imported Chinese vegetables and fruit.

The Chinatown Lions visited Chinese patients in hospitals throughout Victoria and gave out presents on their goodwill tour.

At Glengarry Hospital, however, the patients there had made a special request to see the lion dance—so Mr. Tang arranged it for them.

"We wanted to make sure elderly Chinese people in hospital did not feel forgotten on New Year's Day," said Mr. Tang.

Curb Sitter Now 'Sit-In'

A man sitting on a curb told passersby he had been hit by a car while crossing Douglas Street at Larch yesterday. He ended up in jail on a drunk charge.

The police ambulance and traffic car attended and after about a five-minute talk with the "victim" police brought him in to be booked.

Man Hurled 56 Feet

A motorcyclist who was hurled 56 feet head-first into a curb was in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital last night with a severe head laceration.

Saanich police said Byron M. Bishop, 744 Cordova Bay Road, was driving south on Cedar Hill Cross Road when he struck the right rear fender of a car driven east on Blenkinsop by Percy Rayment, 4011 Blenkinsop.

Mayor's Plea for Shipyards Will Be Well Supported

Pensioners

Critics Not Resented

Owen Kari, board chairman of the Silver Threads Service, currently campaigning to raise $25,000 as the community's share of providing a senior citizens' recreation centre in Centennial Square, said yesterday he was not angered by the breakaway tactics of Victoria Old Age Pensioners' Group No. 1.

The group announced Wednesday, through president R. H. French, that it thought the centre plans totally inadequate—and announced that it had taken a two-year lease on Victoria Ballroom for their own centre.

GOING AHEAD

But yesterday, Mr. Kari told the Colonist: "I am glad to see the group is going ahead with plans of its own. But it will certainly not affect either our drive or our plan for a centre. It will probably help out in the long run."

So far, donations totalling $10,000 have been made towards the $25,000 community share of the $200,000 centre.

Mayor R. B. Wilson—seeking more defence contracts for Pacific Coast shipyards—will have the backing of civic leaders, businessmen and labor officials when he meets Prime Minister Pearson Monday.

The delegation leaving here Sunday includes: Labor representative Ald. A. W. Toome, chamber of commerce president E. E. Pearman and North Vancouver Mayor W. M. Angus.

JOINED IN OTTAWA

In Ottawa they will be joined by Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, Jack Davis, parliamentary assistant to the prime minister and David Gross, Liberal MP for Victoria.

Postmaster General J. R. Nicholson of Vancouver has also indicated support for the delegation, the mayor said yesterday.

A brief to be presented to the government asks that refit contracts for Esquimalt-based warships be awarded to West Coast yards.

Mayor Wilson said the brief will also press for other defence contracts, but declined to name them.

Two More Houses Looted by Thieves

Thieves struck in Oak Bay and Victoria last night adding two more to the rash of house break-ins that have been plaguing Greater Victoria police forces in the past 10 days.

Close to $500 in jewelry and a small amount of cash was taken from the home of Mrs. Macford Slocumb, 3134 Henderson. The thief entered after prying out a basement window of the Oak Bay home.

In Victoria a break-in was reported at the home of E. B. Stinson, 1851 Hollywood Crescent. It was not immediately known what was taken.

'This Is Your Life,' Viv

By KEN JOHNSON

Members of the Victoria Y's Men's Club of the YMCA and their wives took former managing director Viv Shoemaker on a pictorial "This Is Your Life," last night.

In honor of his 39 years in boys' work—28 of them with the YMCA in Victoria—they held a special dinner, sang campfire songs . . . and retold the story of Mr. Shoemaker's life with projected photographs and slides.

Born Francis Vivian Shoemaker, in Ontario 66 years ago, Mr. Shoemaker retired in September last year as YMCA managing director.

During his long and faithful service, the stocky, schemen-faced Mr. Shoemaker has become known as a pillar of strength in the association, despite his diminutive five-foot-four height.

Mr. Shoemaker joined the "Y" full-time as assistant boys' work secretary in Vancouver in 1924. He came to Victoria as boys' secretary in 1927, a post he held for 14 years.

Then he went to Winnipeg as adult program secretary for four years, became general secretary of the YMCA at Capreol, Ontario, and then, in 1949, moved back to Victoria as general secretary.

"During his long career Mr. Shoemaker became known for his socially-alert personality and quick-wittedness. It was he who played a leading part in establishing the YMCA's Camp Thunderbird at Glanz Lake in 1934.

His prowess as a song-leader and accomplished piano player earned him great popularity at social gatherings. His campfire story-telling too was a great hit both with his colleagues and the boys he trained.

A dapper figure on formal occasions, Mr. Shoemaker would revert to blue beret, plus fours and moccasins at camp.

As a tribute to the veteran, Y's men's club president Robert Glickstein presented Mr. Shoemaker with a specially-inscribed pair of book-ends on behalf of all his fellow members and workers.

Said Mr. Shoemaker: "As far as I'm concerned I'm not really retired. I shall continue to call in at the YMCA every day—until I'm physically unable to do so."

Honored shoulder-high last night was 60-year-old former YMCA managing director Viv Shoemaker. Members of Victoria Y's Men's Club honored him

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I did not care for your smart aleck remarks about boys who are named Shirley. A dear friend of mine had a son named Shirley. I admired the boy a great deal. He was the type of young man every mother wants her son to be. So, when the Lord blessed us with a boy I named him Shirley. That was 40 years ago.

Our son Shirley never had to fight his way through school or anywhere else. In fact I can't recall that he was ever in a fight.

For your information, Ann Landers, there were very few girls named Shirley until Shirley Temple came along, about 35 years ago. Before that time there were more male Shirleys than female. I think you owe all male Shirleys an apology.—PLAIN JANE.

Dear Plain: I didn't realize there were so many male Shirleys around until that letter appeared in print. The Shirleys didn't write to me — their mothers did. Thanks to all of you.

Dear Ann Landers: May I be you for just a moment and respond to "Firm Believer"—the couple who has never served liquor in their home because it is against their religious teaching? They feared since they were moving to a new city and would be travelling with a faster car this practice might hurt them in business.

My husband and I have been married over 20 years. We have entertained nationally-known figures in politics, education, medicine, law, religion and business. We have never served liquor in our home and our parties are fabulously successful.

Why? Because what makes a really great evening is stimulating conversation, good food and warm friendship. When these three ingredients are present no one misses alcohol. Only when the hostess has failed must she turn to the liquor cabinet for help.—FIRM BELIEVER NUMBER TWO.

Dear Firm: Welcome to my corner, friend. I've never bought the idea that liquor is a must at a party. I've seen too many evenings ruined because nice people got drunk and became unruly, maudlin, belligerent, foolish, sloppy, amorous, sick, insulting and just plain stupid. It's bad enough when this happens to ordinary folks but when it happens to brilliant, lovely people, it is truly pathetic.

Dear Ann Landers: When our eldest daughter became engaged she informed us that she wanted to be married in the home of her fiancé's parents. My husband and I wanted Marge to be married in her own home, but we were unable to persuade her to change her mind. When she said, "Their home is nicer than ours and I want as beautiful a setting as I can have," we had nothing more to say.

Now, our second daughter is planning to do the same thing. She will be engaged in February and already she's talking about coming down the spiral staircase in the Smith home.

We are not paupers, Ann. Our home is lovely, and we can afford to have a beautiful wedding. We paid for the first wedding and we plan to pay for the second one as well. We just don't want to be asked to go to someone else's house again. Are we wrong?—MOM AND DAD.

Dear Mom and Dad: Your daughter should respect your wishes—even if you lived in a puppet.

It's too bad you let Number One get away with it. Now I hope you have better luck with Number Two.

VON Board

Mrs. Webster President

Cost of a visit from a VON nurse is nominal and on a sliding scale. Mrs. F. J. Norris, retiring president of the local board of the Victorian Order of Nurses, pointed out at an annual meeting Thursday afternoon.

"However, no person is refused care because of inability to pay."

In her annual report Mrs. Norris showed that the Victoria branch continues to expand and advance; that the hospital referral home care program continues; that emotional problems are coming more into the picture and that rehabilitation of the mentally ill is now an important part of the service. The branch still co-operates with the Red Cross in a special housekeeping service.

Director of nursing services, Miss Elizabeth Riddell reported an increase of nearly 7% in bedside nursing program which provides care to medical surgical patients mostly in the over 70 group.

Miss Riddell said that obstetrical services form an important part of VON work in the community; that parentcraft classes are still continued for expectant mothers and that supervision visits are made, on request, to mothers with new babies on return from hospital until the baby is six weeks old.

Bride's Attendants In Pink and White

St. John's Anglican Church was the setting last Saturday for a pretty candlelight ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Sue Kirkendale and Mr. Harvey Dale Sherman.

Rev. Canon George Biddle officiated at the wedding for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Kirkendale, 1925 Taylor Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherman, 4872 Beaver Road. Master Pat Patterson was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose an exquisite gown of white chiffon over taffeta with lace jacket. A single white rose held her three-tiered veil of nylon net. She carried a bouquet of pink Rapture roses and white freesia.

Miss Jen Holt, maid of honor, and the Misses Carol and Valerie Kirkendale, bridesmaids, wore matching gowns of white chiffon over pink taffeta and deep pink floral headpieces. They carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations. Miss Laura Willner, flowergirl, was in a pink frock styled with lace-trimmed collar and pink satin ash. She carried a poise of pink roses and carnations.

Mr. Dave Johns was best man. Mr. Graham Rogers and Mr. Gary Willner were ushers.

Mr. George Holt proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

For travelling the bride changed to a blue French knit suit with matching floral hat and black accessories.

Following a honeymoon trip through the province Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will make their home at 4913 Cordova Bay Road.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. S. Nedd, Mr. H. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. T. O'Klinger, Mr. and Mrs. E. Reilly, Mr. and Mrs. E. Reilly, Miss Carol Reist, Chilliwack; Miss Joan Mackintosh, Miss Lorayne Hicks, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. A. Doble, Courtenay.

Planning to attend the Black and Silver Symphony Ball at the Empress Hotel on Friday, Feb. 21, are from left, Mr. R. Hackney, Mrs. Thomas Mayne, Mr. Mayne and Mrs. Hackney, who are pictured here at dinner in the hotel dining room. Dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the annual ball, sponsored by the women's committee of Victoria Symphony Society, and dress will be formal. Feature attraction on the entertainment program will be Miss "Frankie"

Scott, one of Victoria's well-known young singers. Miss Scott, shown in picture at left dressed in one of her special costumes she'll wear during the evening, has appeared at numerous clubs and banquets and has won several Musical Festival awards. She sings in French and English as "Yvette" (in the picture) and appears as the Daughter of Rosie O'Grady and other characterizations as part of her act.

Sentimental Swing To Valentine Card

NEW YORK (UPI)—Valentine senders are saying it with talk more often than with slams this year.

"We've swung back to the sweet cycle," said Steve Shannon, director of the Greeting Card Association.

Shannon explained that styles in greeting cards, as in women's clothing, go in cycles. "There's a nostalgic theme throughout this year's collections," he said. "A lot of the roccoco, the frills, the embossing that marked the cards 50 years ago. Only now, they're larger and fancier. And costlier. Some of these are $1 and on up items."

"We're seeing fewer of the slam cards, the 'dear sir, you cur' type." Some of the current ones are openly sentimental, as the one for the swain who's overcome—"I can't find words to tell how much you mean to me. This valentine just comes to say, you're thought of lovingly."

Or, the one destined for a wife. "With all my love. Thoughtful, sweet, loving, describe you perfectly..." Hubby ends the missive with an "all my heart" pledge of affection.

In the non-sentimental category, there's the valentine that puts the sender on the back: "I suppose you're looking for a valentine who's intellectual and sophisticated and good-looking. I accept." Another to the point observes, "Valentine, we could talk turkey, if I weren't so chicken."

Researchers at the association said the observance of Valentine's Day dates to ancient Rome.

It grew from the pagan Feast of Lupercalia, when the priests of Lupercal made a circuit of Palatine Hill striking with goat-skin thongs all women encountered—a rite believed to assure fertility.

Most scholars agree that the day was named for a young priest named Valentine who refused to accept the traditional gods of Rome and was jailed for his faith in Christianity. While jailed, he cured the keeper's daughter of blindness but was beheaded anyway. After the execution Feb. 14 AD, it was learned he had written the little girl to console her and had signed, "From your Valentine."

Aunt Makes Cake

White gladiolus were on the altar and baskets filled with yellow and white spring flowers decorated St. Matthias Church last Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Mary Margaret Henze and Mr. Donald Hans Jacobson.

Rev. Angus Cameron of Lundavra performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Henze, 1631 Pinewood Avenue and the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jacobson, 640 Dundas Street.

Miss Irene Harris sang "These Whom God Has Joined Together, and was accompanied on the organ by Dr. J. V. Bateman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a classically-styled gown of rustling, ribbed silk taffeta. Sleeves were long and tapered and the neckline was bateau style. Sweetheart bows and circles of Guipure lace enhanced the straight front panel of the skirt which fell into a soft train at the back. Her veil of nylon tulle misted from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried yellow rosebuds, spring flowers and ivy. A pearl pendant, a gift from the groom, was her only jewelry.

Bride attendants were Misses Sandra Campbell, Jennie Jacobson, Grace and Joan Henze.

They wore waltz-length gowns of aquamarine tulle over taffeta with lace inserts at the waistline and circling the skirt. Their whimsy hats were entone and they carried white satin purses topped with yellow roses, spring flowers and ivy.

Mr. Barry Waters was best man and Mr. Paul Gaeger, Mr. Mike Gibbs and Mr. Bob Cross showed guests to pews marked with white satin bows.

Working on Exercise Skywatch aboard HMCS Fraser in Hawaiian waters are Lieut. James Buchan, Vernon, B.C.; AB Harry Webster, Victoria, and OS Gerald Gulak, Inglis, Man. All ships and aircraft within range of ship's radar were tracked.

Shipboard Hobby in Far East

Time to Change Clock

Shorts, sandals and open-neck shirts have been the dress order of the day for some time on the navy's destroyer escorts HMCS Fraser, Mackenzie and St. Laurent, now on a training cruise of the Far East.

The three Esquimaux-based ships, which left HMC Dockyard Jan. 7, had covered 7,712 miles of their 20,000-mile cruise when they sailed past Corregidor Island into Manila Bay last Monday to dock at the capital of the Philippines.

Previous stops were at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii, Midway and Guam.

The days are filled with a seemingly endless series of the quarterdeck in the comparative coolness of a late evening," he said.

Temperatures have been hovering toward 90 degrees.

A highlight of the Fraser's seagoing entertainment was a concert last Feb. 1.

Every mess and department was represented in the productions, ranging from comedy skits to group singing.

Winners of the show were PO Leslie Osland, 2758 Island View, and PO James Yakabuski, 827 Rockheights, for best musical performance; PO Robert Bryan, 3961 Helen, best comedy actor; and CPO Nick Lazaruk, 1071 Beverley Place, whose group put on the best comedy skit.

Keeping track of the frequently-changing local times has become almost a hobby on shipboard.

The squadron crossed the International Date Line on the night of Jan. 22, resulting in the complete loss of Jan. 23.

Adding to the chronological confusion, clocks have been retarded one hour on no less than eight occasions since the cruise started in early January.

Waiting Turn

Training at wheel of HMCS St. Laurent in Far East waters, is OS S. G. Hellbuth, Calgary. AB B. J. Blissett, Victoria, awaits his turn.

Wiser's whiskies are older in virtually all cases!

Older to Wiser's means aged in wood, not merely the date stamp on the bottle. It means "married in wood" which is a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending—for a further period of quiet aging. It means "lighter", smoother flavour acquired naturally—through patient aging. For the best whiskies, drink one that's older and Wiser's.

Wiser's well-aged whiskies: Wiser's De Luxe, 10 years old; Wiser's 101, 6 years old; Wiser's Special Blend, 4 years old.

Fortune Cookie Factory

Help! I'm Being Held Prisoner

NEW YORK (AP)—A Buffalo, N.Y., businessman, too embarrassed to call police for help, was a prisoner for four hours Wednesday in a Chinese fortune cookie factory.

He placed a call to Buffalo in a vain effort to get released. In desperation, he peered through a locked gate and attracted someone's attention. Police and the owner were called.

Robert Grove, 29, an employee of Buffalo radio station WKBW, Wednesday night told police and factory owner Philip Leong what had happened: Grove had contracted earlier with Leong's factory for 150,000 of the little cookies for promotion. He completed details for, the final shipment of 50,000 cookies and strolled to the rear of the factory.

Non-Conformist Heiress Dies at Age of 98

Mrs. Frances Booth, heiress to an industrial fortune and non-conformist died Wednesday in the Empress Hotel where she had lived for several years. She was 98.

She was born Frances Hunt, daughter of a prominent Montreal family. She married Frederick Booth, second son of J. R. Booth, a multi-millionaire who made his fortune in lumber and other commerce in the Ottawa Valley.

NOTED HOSTESS

While in Ottawa, she was a noted hostess, known for her lavish, unconventional parties. Some of her dinners, for instance were "progressive" with the gentlemen changing chairs after each of the eight courses.

Frequently she served "mystery drinks" to her guests. The Booths had three children, twin boys and a girl, Lois, who was once married to Prince Erik of Denmark. The marriage was annulled. All three children died in 1941 at about the same time.

Her descendants include four grandchildren, Pamela and Ann Booth, daughters of her twin sons and her daughter's children Count Christian and Alexandra, Countess Rosenberg. Funeral services will be held at Sands at 10:30 a.m. today. Cremation will follow.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naras Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naras Plan. If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Arms Spending Cut
Urged by Russians

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union said Thursday a universal agreement to reduce military spending is the most urgent initial step toward world disarmament.

Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference all nations of the world, big and small, should agree to reduce their military expenditures by 10 to 15 per cent. He said the conference must give this issue top priority.

BRAZIL PLAN

Tsarapkin's proposal followed a similar suggestion by Brazilian delegate Josue de Castro, who called on the big powers to make simultaneous and equal cuts in their military budgets and devote 20 per cent to helping underdeveloped countries of the world.

The Soviet delegate agreed with the idea of a cut in military spending but said all nations would have to join in.

EASE BURDEN

Tsarapkin told the meeting the world's total military spending exceeds $120,000,000,000 a year. He said steps must be taken quickly to ease this burden.

An American spokesman said the U.S. delegation will study Tsarapkin's suggestion carefully.

Officers

The retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will elect officers at a meeting at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

The election has been made necessary by the transfer to Vancouver of the group's chairman, Rod Macdonald.

Bernard Cox, chairman of the chamber's Spring Flower Festival committee, will address the retail merchants regarding the planned festival. Planning for 1964 Christmas decorations also will be discussed.

The merchants' meeting will be in the chamber board room. The flower festival committee will have its regular noon Monday meeting at the Dominion Hotel.

YURI NOSSENKO

Nosenko
Out of It

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union said yesterday it intends to keep the Yuri Nosenko defection case out of the disarmament conference.

Soviet disarmament negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin said Nosenko's disappearance in Geneva and his subsequent defection to the United States is a subject for negotiation between Switzerland and Moscow.

Trade with Cuba Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian exports to Cuba last year rose about 50 per cent, sources here estimate. But it was Russian gold that paid for the increase—not Cuban pesos.

While full 1963 statistics are not yet available, the individual volume of Canadian exports to Cuba last year was $16,400,000 compared with $11,000,000 in 1962 and $31,000,000 in 1961.

Quebec Teacher Strike Sends Home More Pupils

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — About 600 pupils have returned to school in the eight communities affected by a walkout of 28 students in their last year of high school showed up on their own Thursday and worked without supervision.

The protest was joined Thursday by 33 teachers in nearby East Angus and another 1,200 students were sent home.

Meanwhile, most of 530 students sent home last Friday returned to school in Windsor and were taught by teaching brothers and nuns.

In Coaticook, nuns organized recreational facilities for school children. In Asbestos, where the walkout started a week ago, 22 of 28 students in their last year of high school showed up on their own Thursday and worked without supervision.

All the students involved are French-speaking. Meanwhile, school authorities in Richmond, Danville and Bromptonville said they expect classes will resume next week, taught by religious and part-time instructors.

The Quebec government is attempting to bring the wage dispute before an arbitration board. However, the teachers want to negotiate with local commissions while the Association of Roman Catholic School Commissions for the diocese of Sherbrooke wants a broad contract covering all the teachers.

Wage scales differ substantially from one community to the other in this area about 85 miles east of Montreal and the teachers have stated the wage increase offered by the diocese association would benefit some teachers more than others.

The association wants to work toward uniform rates of pay for the whole area. The teachers have been offered an increase averaging $500 a year by the local boards but the teachers demands average out to about $750 a year.

Elected president of the Vancouver Island branch of the Royal Military College Club of Canada at its annual meeting last week was Brig. S. E. E. Morra. Vice-president is Capt. W. P. Hayes. Honorary secretary-treasurer is Lieut. David Lee.

by LONG DISTANCE...

it costs so little — why not phone tonight?

What better way to add a happy memory to the day than a phone call to someone who is near or dear to you? For distance is no longer a problem. With Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) you can reach over 60,000,000 phones throughout Canada and the United States within less than 60 seconds. Or you can place a call through your Operator on a person-to-person basis, in which case there is no charge if that special someone is not available.

Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditure that have actually been reduced. Moreover, after 6 p.m. each evening and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth. Check the rates for yourself on the inside back cover of your telephone directory or dial "0" and ask for the Rate Clerk.

In many cases you may be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there". In the evening, for example, you can make a call from Vancouver to Toronto for as little as $2.40; to Calgary for only $1.50; to Kamloops for $1.05.

These are pretty modest prices to pay for the very best minutes of the day. Why not phone TONIGHT?

Secret Witness May Link Syndicate to Sex Ring

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI)—Dist. Atty. William Cahn disclosed Thursday he has a secret witness to link Long Island's suburban housewife sex-for-sale ring to the Cosa Nostra national crime syndicate.

Cahn said the witness is being kept in hiding for his own safety while the information he has given to authorities is being checked out.

"There is a possibility of this (call girl) ring having a connection with some organized crime and this possibility looms larger with the evidence and testimony of a witness who shall remain nameless," Cahn said.

Meanwhile, the mystery around the death of bar owner Edmund Nugent deepened. His body was found Tuesday inside his flaming automobile.

Cahn said there still was no determination whether Nugent, who admitted being a "steerer" for the call girl ring, was murdered or whether his death was an accident.

He said a report from an autopsy showed that he was not drunk, but that he apparently died from smoke inhalation. The inside of the car smoldered for some time before bursting into flames fed by some flammable liquid.

Nugent was on a first name basis with a number of gangland chieftains including racketeers Johnny Dio and Frank Costello.

Cahn also announced that Nugent's silent partner in the bar, Joseph Napolitano, 53, had been arrested and was being questioned about Nugent's death and the call girl ring.

Cosa Nostra Families Under Fire

NEW YORK (UPI)—A major United States move against Cosa Nostra "families" in New York City was underway Thursday.

The U.S. attorney's office here, armed with bulging FBI files, information supplied by underworld informer Jim Valachi and other hoodlums now behind bars, has started presenting evidence to a federal grand jury.

U.S. Attorney Robert Morgenthau, directing the legal war against five "families" who control the rackets, hopes to obtain criminal conspiracy indictments against the leading members of the national crime syndicate.

The Cosa Nostra chiefs in the government's bullseye include Thomas (Three-Finger Brown) Luchese, Vito Genovese, Carlo Gambino, Joseph Bonanno and Michael Miranda, who is believed to have taken over the Profaci mob.

The government's move apparently is not only aimed at cutting off the heads of the underworld "families" but also is a well directed swipe at the underlings as well.

Threat Works

QUEBEC (CP)—The owner of a Quebec City building ordered a statue of General Wolfe taken down from the facade of the structure following a threatening telephone call.

The store watchman received the telephone call last Friday night in French, warning that "the building would be set on fire if the statue were not taken down."

The owner of the building was notified and the statue was taken down from its niche Thursday.

Hassle Over Ookpik Shaping Up

TORONTO (CP)—The federal government has given a Toronto toy manufacturer the bird, and a competitor doesn't like it.

The department of northern affairs was criticized Thursday for asking Reliable Toy Company to mass produce "Ookpik," a fuzzy, saucer-eyed version of the Arctic owl originally made by Eskimos.

Jack Shafter, vice-president of Royal Toy Limited, accused the department Thursday of "wheeling and dealing" in making private arrangements for commercial production of "Ookpiks."

He demanded that the government reopen the contract for the lowest and best bid.

Lawrence Samuels, vice-president of Reliable, said: "We've been told bluntly to keep our mouths shut about this thing. Any public relations or publicity will have to come from northern affairs."

He admitted his firm is interested in "Ookpik" but would neither confirm nor deny that a contract had been drawn up.

The department is reported to have a huge backlog of orders for the bird-toy from Canada and the United States. Eskimos at the Fort Chimo, Que., co-op have been able to produce only 20.

About a year ago, we had a prototype of the Epic shipped to Canada for a real torture test: driving in the near-Arctic temperatures and winter weather of Northern Ontario. We figured that, if there were any weak points in this car, they'd show up here! The test proved for sure—this car could take anything a Canadian winter could throw at it and come back for more. Nazi Professor Takes Own Life

FRANKFURT (AP)—A West German doctor hanged himself in prison Thursday and escaped trial on charges that he was the man who headed Adolf Hitler's program for killing 200,000 mental and physical defectives during the Second World War.

The suicide of Dr. Werner Heyde, scholarly, 61-year-old professor of medicine—fourth death of a Nazi war crimes trial defendant this month—followed by one day, the fatal fall from an eighth-floor window in Cologne in what the state prosecutor, Dr. Fritz Bauer, said also was a suicide.

TOP DEFENDANTS

Heyde and Tilmann were to have gone on trial Tuesday at Limburg as the two top defendants accused of responsibility for the slaughter of 70,000 of the 200,000 defectives exterminated in Nazi death camps.

Heyde hanged himself with a belt from a heating pipe in his cell at Butzbach prison. Tilmann, 60, administrative expert in ridding Hitler's touted super-race of defectives, fell from an office-building window.

COMMIT SUICIDE

Earlier this month, Ewald Peters, top bodyguard on chancellor Ludwig Erhard's December visit to U.S. President Johnson's ranch in Texas, hanged himself in his cell in Bonn rather than face trial in the mass killing of Jews in Russia in the Second World War. Peters was Erhard's chief security officer.

LEAPED TO DEATH

Another ex-Nazi, Julius Garbler, leaped to his death Feb. 6 while held at Wels, Austria, awaiting trial on charges of murdering Poles as a security police officer in 1942-43.

A third defendant with Heyde and Tilmann, Dr. Gerhard Bohne, 61, fled last summer and is believed to be in Latin America. Dr. Hans Hefelmann, 58, the only other defendant, is free on bail and lives in Munich with his wife and four children. Police said Hefelmann is in

Cell Cramped Say Priests

MONTREAL (CP)—Sixteen Canadian Jesuit priests and brothers expelled from Haiti arrived here Thursday, and two of them told of their 13-day stay in a Haitian prison.

The reason for the imprisonment of a priest and a brother and for the subsequent expulsion of the entire 18-man Canadian Jesuit mission "remain somewhat mysterious," said Rev. Paul Laramée, one of those imprisoned.

GUARDS POLITE

"The guards were polite and respectful to us in prison, but the cell was tiny and cramped and every day seemed 48 hours long," said Father Laramée.

Father Laramée, who managed a religious radio station run by the Jesuits in Haiti, and Brother Ross were arrested upon arrival at the airport at Port au Prince, the Haitian capital, Jan. 31.

NOTHING POLITICAL

He said the regime of President Francois Duvalier "seemed to think we were doing some political job, but there was absolutely nothing political about our work."

"They checked our baggage, saw some quite innocent papers and periodicals, and promptly took us to prison where we were kept until yesterday.

"We were told the papers we had might be a threat to the security of the state."

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano, reporting Thursday the government of Haiti had expelled 18 Canadian Jesuits, says the expulsion was an exceptionally grave move.

The Vatican newspaper added the following editorial comment:

"It is superfluous to underline the exceptional gravity of the move which has added to others taken to the detriment of the Roman Catholic church in Haiti during the past years. 'All Catholics share the sorrow and concern of a people whose greatest title of honor and hope remains, despite the many tests, to be faithful to the Catholic religion.'"

Record Defeats Probers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has given up on the rock 'n' roll record Louis

There were complaints that the platter had off-color lyrics which could be detected when the 45-rpm disc was played at 33 1/3.

The Federal Communications Commission, the post office department and the justice department listened at speeds from 16 rpm to 78 rpm.

"We found the record unintelligible at any speed we played it," an FCC spokesman said.

Beatles Buzz Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — Britain's Ringo Starr, one of the four Beatles buzzed into this resort town on a jet Thursday and were greeted by an exterminating truck and 4,500 squealing teen-agers who kicked out airport windows.

"Come on, baby."

30 Miles (UPI) — The girl, who said she met Ringo in Sweden, was waiting in the hotel lobby where the Beatles will stay at Miami Beach.

The shaggy-haired drummer spotted her quickly and his face broadened in a smile when the girl screamed, "Ringo, Ringo."

The four Britishers from Liverpool flew here for a brief rest sandwiched in with two television sessions—following a "scream along" session in New York that nearly cracked the walls of Carnegie Hall.

Despite the crush of the thousands of screaming and singing fans, the young singers with the seaweed hairdos made it through the Miami Airport unmolested and were rushed off to Miami Beach in a limousine, flanked by police escorts.

Singer Denies Kidnapping Hoax

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frank Sinatra, Jr., Thursday challenged defence charges his kidnapping was a hoax, in a point-by-point description of 34 hours he was held captive, "playing it cool" to save his life.

Sinatra, almost certain to undergo intensive cross-examination today by defence attorneys who claim his kidnapping was a "publicity hoax," provided two dramatic hours of testimony this afternoon at trial of three men accused of kidnapping him.

Posed, speaking slowly but precisely, young Sinatra disclosed for the first time publicly he heard the three defendants say he was abducted as part of a plan "for higher-ups in organized crime."

The three accused kidnappers as well as a crowded courtroom listened intently. Sinatra, questioned by prosecutor Thomas Sheridan, started at the beginning—the time of the kidnap Dec. 8—and ended with his release on Dec. 11.

Some major points included: He was abducted at gunpoint Dec. 8 from his Lake Tahoe motel room by two men, one of whom he pointed out as Harry Worthington Keenan.

He said he feared for his life and that of a friend, John Foss, because of Keenan's statement "in a profound, straight tone, that if there was any trouble, there was going to be shooting."

He said he was told to "play it cool" to avoid getting hurt, and said at no time did he escape.

BLINDFOLDED
The witness said during most of the period he was kidnapped, he was blindfolded and could identify only Keenan.

One of the defendants told him he was "involved in a major kidnap," purpose of which was to obtain $240,000—"money from your father."

ORGANIZED CRIME
He said when he was held captive for 34 hours at Canoga Park, Calif., he heard a conversation of the three men accused of his kidnap.

"The three men said they had merely been picked to execute the plan for higher-ups... that the higher-ups were in organized crime."

During the course of testimony, young Sinatra described a signet ring "given me on my seventh birthday which bears the initials FS. He said he called the ring's attention to one of his abductors, noting "that perhaps a policeman with good enough eyes would recognize it."

ALONE IN HOUSE
On Tuesday, Dec. 10, Sinatra said he was alone in the Canoga Park house with "No. 3" man who advised him arrangements were being made to pick up money for his release. He emphatically denied he ever gave the number of his mother's telephone to the kidnappers for a contact.

Beatles Buzz Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — Britain's mop-topped rock 'n' rollers, the Beatles, buzzed into this resort town on a jet Thursday and were greeted by an exterminating truck and 4,500 squealing teenagers who kicked out airport windows.

Ringo Starr, one of the four, ran into an old girl friend shortly after his arrival and swept her through a police line into a hotel elevator shouting: "Come on, baby."

The girl, who said she met Ringo in Sweden, was waiting in the hotel lobby where the Beatles will stay at Miami Beach.

The shaggy-haired drummer spotted her quickly and his face broadened in a smile when the girl screamed, "Ringo, Ringo."

The four Britishers from Liverpool flew here for a brief rest—sandwiched in with two television sessions—following a "scream along" session in New York that nearly cracked the walls of Carnegie Hall.

Despite the crush of the thousands of screaming and singing fans, the young singers with the seaweed hairdos made it through the Miami Airport unmolested and were rushed off to Miami Beach in a limousine, flanked by police escorts.

Identifies Suspect

Singer Denies Kidnapping Hoax

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frank Sinatra, Jr., Thursday challenged defence charges his kidnapping was a hoax, in a point-by-point description of 54 hours he was held captive, "playing it cool" to save his life.

Sinatra, almost certain to undergo intensive cross-examination today by defence attorneys who claim his kidnapping was a "publicity hoax," provided two dramatic hours of testimony this afternoon at trial of three men accused of kidnapping him.

PART OF PLAN
Poised, speaking slowly but precisely, young Sinatra disclosed for the first time publicly he heard the three defendants say he was abducted as part of a plan "for higher-ups in organized crime."

The three accused kidnappers as well as a crowded courtroom listened intently. Sinatra, questioned by prosecutor Thomas Sheridan, started at the beginning—the time of the kidnap Dec. 8—and ended with his release on Dec. 11.

Some major points included: He was abducted at gunpoint Dec. 8 from his Lake Tahoe motel room by two men, one of whom he pointed out as Barry Worthington Keenan. He said he feared for his life and that of a friend, John Foss, because of Keenan's statement "in a profound, straight tone, that if there was any trouble, there was going to be shooting."

He said he was told to "play it cool" to avoid getting hurt, and said at no time did he escape.

BLINDFOLDED
The witness said during most of the period he was kidnapped, he was blindfolded and could identify only Keenan.

One of the defendants told him he was "involved in a major kidnap," purpose of which was to obtain $240,000—"money from your father."

ORGANIZED CRIME
He said when he was held captive for 54 hours at Canoga Park, Calif., he heard a conversation of the three men accused of his kidnap.

The three men said they had merely been picked to execute the plan for higher-ups... that the higher-ups were in organized crime.

During the course of testimony, young Frank described a signet ring "given me on my seventh birthday which bears the initials FS. He said he called the ring's attention to one of his abductors, noting "that perhaps a policeman with good enough eyes would recognize it."

ALONE IN HOUSE
On Tuesday, Dec. 10, Sinatra said he was alone in the Canoga Park house with "No. 3" man who advised him arrangements were being made to pick up money for his release. He emphatically denied he ever gave the number of his mother's telephone to the kidnappers for a contact.

Hairy Display

Cigarette Sales Drop Sharply

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Cigarette sales in New York state fell sharply last month, cutting state revenue by $480,511.

A spokesman for the state tax department says the decline probably was a reaction to the recent federal government report branding cigarette smoking as a danger to health.

About 100 employees of the Cowichan Copper Mine at Sooke, flooded out in early December, won't know for another two weeks when the mine will again be fully operational, company officials said yesterday.

Ghana

Sweet, Old 'Firewood' Hits Spot

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—A sweet red vermouth named Lal Momo—"old firewood"—in Ghanaian vernacular—is part of this country's efforts toward industrialization.

In most developing countries, industrialization has been the great aim since independence. In many it has meant new textile factories, automotive plants, cement mills, shipping companies and efforts to attract foreign investment. Ghana has all these and also boasts an indigenous distillery.

"When the British ran Ghana as their Gold Coast colony, the manufacture of whisky from palm wine was illegal," says E. W. Kobina - Kyinaku, general manager of Ghana Distilleries Corp.

"After independence in 1957 the government realized it could not stamp out illicit distilling so it decided to take advantage of the tax revenue possibilities."

About 150,000 imperial gallons of gin were sold in 1962, said Kobina-Kyinaku. It was the distillery's most popular item.

The distillery plans to export to other African countries starting in 1964.

Orbiting Spaceships May Guard U.S.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The year is 1975. Several U.S. spaceships the size of house trailers circle the earth in an orbital pattern which keeps the entire earth under constant surveillance.

Each has a four-man crew. Two fly the craft and monitor instruments while the other two rest.

Suddenly, the captain of one spots scores of missiles blasting from a hostile country. He flashes an alert to the other ships. Those within range alarm detection equipment at the missiles and determine within seconds that they are headed for the United States.

OTHER SHIPS

The spaceships, manoeuvring at 18,000 miles an hour, launch deadly anti-missile rockets at the enemy projectiles, destroying most before they've expanded their booster fuel. Other ships in the American patrol clobber many of the warheads during the mid-course portion of their journey. And U.S. ground defences wipe out many more.

Meanwhile, special attack spacecraft in the United States circling force unleash nuclear weapons on the enemy country.

Can manned satellites effectively carry out military missions of this type?

LONG SAID YES

The U.S. Air Force long has said yes and has struggled for a military role in space. In December the service won its argument and was assigned the multi-million-dollar task of developing a manned orbiting laboratory, called MOL for short, to learn just what the military can do while orbiting 150 to 300 miles above the earth—the area considered vital for war operations.

MODIFIED VERSION

As envisaged, the early MOLs will consist of a modified version of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's two-man Gemini capsule attached to a huge canister 25 feet long and 10 feet in diameter.

The Titan III, now under development, will be the booster rocket. During the launch the two-to-four-man astronaut teams will ride in the Gemini vehicle. Once orbit is achieved, they will transfer to the pressurized canister, where they will remove their space suits and operate in a shirt-sleeve environment.

FOUR WEEKS

After three or four weeks aloft, the astronauts will don space suits, slip back into the Gemini capsule and return to earth, leaving the canister in orbit.

In announcing the MOL decision Dec. 10, Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said the first manned flight of the complete vehicle is expected late in 1967 or early 1968 after a number of unmanned launchings have qualified the equipment.

Eventually, the United States may have giant stations in space manned by 50 or more men who would rotate back to earth on a regular schedule. The stations would operate for five years or more and would serve as military outposts, scientific laboratories, launching pads and way stations for other planets or the moon.

Indonesian Army Claims Big Area

By KARSTEN PRAGER

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Southeast Asia's biggest military machine—the Indonesian Army—is claiming the role of the area's defender. The claim undoubtedly will cause more uneasiness among neighboring nations.

La-Ce, Ahmad Yani, young U.S.-trained chief of staff of the Indonesian Army, told students at the army staff command school recently that Indonesia's soldiers must be prepared to widen their responsibility for the security of Southeast Asia.

In line with government policy, Yani said, "a wider perspective is needed. Our political concept is to eliminate the direct confrontation of the two blocs (East and West) in Southeast Asia and relinquish the responsibility of security and stability in the region to Southeast Asian countries themselves."

NECESSARY POTENTIAL

Indonesia, he said, has all the necessary potential for this task—the region's biggest manpower reserve, the most strategic location and the richest resources.

Indonesian political leaders have made no bones about their conviction that their nation of more than 100,000,000 people, fifth most populous in the world, is entitled to a sphere of influence in Southeast Asia.

Whether Indonesia can do the job is another question.

A million men under arms, widely scattered among the 3,000 islands of the republic and equipped with a mixture of modern and outdated equipment. Most of its modern weapons, including jet fighters, medium-range jet bombers and missiles, come from the Soviet Union.

Logistics, maintenance and communications are major problems. And aside from fighting rebel guerrillas at home the army has had no battle experience.

SOUTHEAST ASIA

The Malaysia crisis provides a measure of how much Indonesian leaders oppose foreign military influence remaining in Southeast Asia.

Judging by official statements over the last year, Indonesia wants nothing more than the defence treaty between Malaysia, the new nation it has pledged to destroy, and Britain.

Under the pact, British troops and ships are still stationed in Malaysia, on the doorstep of the Indonesian archipelago. President Sukarno denounces this as "imperialist encirclement."

Jani said that under a "more sophisticated" defence policy, the Indonesian government is planning the following moves in the next four years:

1. Creation of an army strategic reserve command.

2. Completion of a retraining program for thousands of soldiers who served during the 1945-50 period of rebellion against the Dutch.

3. Improvement of an organization.

4. Plans for the army to manufacture all of its light weapons and ammunition for them.

5. Preparations to put the army on a conscription rather than a volunteer basis.

Rhododendron Defies Season

Gardens in other parts of Canada may be frozen and covered with snow but this rhododendron bush has been blooming for the past month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Charman, 582 St. Charles. Showing the flowers is Mrs. Gertrude Sprinkle, a friend of the family.—(Bud Kinman)

Federal Government Blamed

The legislature was warned yesterday the federal government is about to copy in B.C. Matsqui in the Lower Fraser Valley was a copy of an institution built at Lexington, Kentucky, 27 years ago.

The warning came from David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) who blamed the provincial government for not putting a stop to the proposal. Mr. Barrett charged that the proposed $7,000,000 federal treatment centre planned for Matsqui in the Lower Fraser Valley was a copy of an institution built at Lexington, Kentucky, 27 years ago.

The Lexington centre had cost $5,000,000 to build and a total of $60,000,000 to operate. When its superintendent finally retired he had reported two conclusions—that addicts had an insatiable desire for drugs and they liked chocolate cake.

Mr. Barrett said the Kentucky centre had cured only two per cent of its inmates. "We're going to duplicate that?"

"What are we doing with this problem of drug addiction which costs the businessmen of Vancouver $50,000,000 a year?" he asked.

Major blame for the problem lay with Ottawa, he said, but B.C. had failed to set up proper liaison with federal authorities.

He appealed to Attorney-General Bonner to dissuade Ottawa from its Matsqui proposal before it is too late.

Latin America, Indies B.C. Food Market

Potential markets for B.C. food products in Latin America and the West Indies were mentioned in the legislature yesterday by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

An "exploratory mission" sponsored by his department and the B.C. Broiler Marketing Board found some markets which may prove useful, during a tour of Peru, Chile, Venezuela, Jamaica, British Honduras, Trinidad, Guadeloupe, El Salvador, Costa Rica, Panama and Mexico, he said.

ORDERS FOR CHICKEN

Orders have been obtained for 120,000 pounds of frozen chicken to Lima, Peru, and British Honduras is also interested in frozen chicken. Jamaica asked about canned Bartlett pears, and the Chilean government wanted price quotations on alfalfa and created wheat grass seed.

Conditions on the farm scene remained "relatively stable" in B.C. during the past year, "in spite of unfavorable growing conditions in some parts of the province and softening price structures in some commodities."

Preliminary estimates placed the total cash income from the sale of farm products very close to the all-time record established in 1962 and could even possibly exceed that record, said the Agriculture Minister.

The trend in milk consumption is towards increased demand for skim milk and low fat content, because this kind of milk is cheaper, people seem interested in lower caloric intake, and because of "adverse publicity toward butterfat."

"There has been a general scare campaign waged against all animal fats and in particular butterfat as a possible contributory agent to high cholesterol levels in the human body with possible heart trouble resulting from this. "While such evidence is very incomplete and inconclusive the adverse effect on the dairy industry has been considerable," said Mr. Richter.

Ottawa was totally disregarding the experience of its National Parole Board addition treatment program in going ahead with the Matsqui project.

In pilot form, this program has shown success with six out of 16 inmates.

The parole board plan, unlike the institution planned for the Fraser Valley, is non-custodial.

Big, Fat Postal Kiss For Tourist Bureau

The Victoria Visitors Bureau got a big fat kiss by mail this week.

It was drawn in red crayon on a piece of paper by a Buena Park, Calif., schoolgirl, to whom the bureau had sent information about B.C. and Alberta for use in a school project. The paper also bore the words, "Your sweet."

And there also was a letter from the girl. It follows: "For all the help you have gone to, to help me I'll probably get an A on the report because you gave me so much information. "Sincerely yours, . . . "P.S.—I never learned how to spell probably. My provinces are Saskatchewan and Quebec now."

"I can't get any material on Quebec. I know I'm putting you into a lot of trouble but could you get me material on Quebec."

The children will likely take the material home, he said, and expose their parents to the bureau's advertising.

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce, incidentally, is getting its own share of interesting correspondence from U.S. school children. It recently received a request from a youth in Circleville, Ohio.

The envelope was addressed: "Chamber of Commerce/ British Columbia/Juneau, Canada." A harassed postal worker had written under the address, "Try Victoria."

Centennial Project

Portion of Grant Sought For Greenbelt Parklands

By IAN STREET

Victoria will ask the provincial government to spend a portion of the special $2,500,000 federal centennial grant, earmarked for a project in the capital city, on acquisition of greenbelt parklands.

City council yesterday adopted the suggestion, by Mayor R. B. Wilson, and decided to inform the government of its wish by letter.

Alg. Millard Mooney, city parks chairman and head of the Capital Region Planning Board, urged all possible speed in making the request. He said it probably would be "too late" if the proposal was made by a delegation.

SOURCE NOT NAMED

Works Minister W. N. Chant, speaking in the legislature Wednesday, said a multi-million dollar museum would be the capital's special project for 1967.

The minister did not name the source of the funds, but indicated that it will be financed out of Ottawa's $2,500,000 gift, which is to be matched by the province.

Mayor Wilson told council yesterday he believed purchase of property for recreation would comply with Ottawa's wish that the money be spent on projects of a cultural nature.

INSTANT MONEY

"This could provide us with some of the instant money needed to acquire these parklands (mainly on the Saanich Peninsula) before they are lost to the community for all time," the mayor said.

Earlier this week Greater Victoria Intermunicipal committee decided to send a delegation headed by Mayor Wilson to ask the provincial government if it would finance the acquisition of parklands on a large scale. The money would be repaid on terms, to be settled later, by the municipalities.

WOULD SPLIT AMOUNT

Ald. A. W. Toome said yesterday that he "wasn't prepared at this time to disagree" with the suggestion by Mayor Wilson that some of the special federal grant go towards purchase of parklands.

But, he noted this would "split" the amount available, and could result "in us not getting the type of monument we desire."

DISCUSS POLICY

Council agreed to his suggestion that an informal meeting be held as soon as possible to discuss policy on centennial grants.

The acquisition of parkland on the outskirts of Greater Victoria was urged by businessman Hugh Stephen in his report to the Chamber of Commerce. He favored a half-mill annual tax levy by all councils to finance the project.

The intermunicipal committee felt this method would be too slow, and decided to seek the advance of a large amount of cash from the government for immediate action.

$15,000 Too High

Landscape Bids Over Budget

Auditorium Suggested For Museum

Why not build an auditorium inside that big provincial museum which will go up on the civil servants' parking lot, Victoria MLA Donald Smith suggested last night.

There has to be a roof over the museum anyway, and a heating plant—all it would take for an auditorium would be "an extra floor to hold 3,500 people," he said in the legislature.

An auditorium near the Empress Hotel and other hotels would attract large conventions during the winter months to help round out the tourist business.

When the civil servants' parking lot between Belleville and Elliott is taken away for start of construction of the museum, the CPR property northwest of the legislative grounds could be acquired for parking space, Mr. Smith suggested.

City council yesterday opened tenders for landscaping of Centennial Square and learned that the lowest of four bids received was some $15,000 over the $80,000 budget for the first stage of the job.

The committee in charge of overall planning for the $2,000,000 civic project is scheduled to meet this afternoon to study the tenders.

Bids were received from the following companies: Farmer Construction Ltd., $110,753; M. P. Paine, $123,935; George H. Wheaton, $108,481; and Coniston Construction Ltd., Vancouver, $95,536.

TO SELL LAND

Council decided yesterday to list for sale several city-owned properties totalling nearly three acres on Washington Avenue south of Gorge Road at a sale price of $22,700 an acre. Promoters of the Sherwood Forest Playland scheme have offered $50,000 for the properties, but city-owned lands must be listed for seven days before a deal is completed so that other offers can be obtained.

Mayor R. B. Wilson told council he was informed by backers of the scheme that it would involve spending of some $3,000,000 and would be ready for operation in 1965. Council was shown sketches of some of the planned attractions.

DISCUSS BUDGET

Aldermen will seek a meeting with two Greater Victoria school board members for Victoria at 5 p.m. Monday to discuss the School District 61 budget before it meets with the full board of school trustees Wednesday.

City manager Dennis Young was authorized to begin negotiations with surrounding municipalities on the basis of sharing costs of operating Greater Victoria family and juvenile court.

Jesuits

Haitian Charges Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin summoned the Haitian chargé d'affaires to his office Thursday to inform him of Canada's rejection of allegations against Canadian Jesuit missionaries expelled from the island republic.

His action was taken after the Canadian government learned that the government of Haiti circulated to diplomatic missions and the press in Port au Prince a statement accusing the Jesuits of planning to overthrow the regime of President Francois Duvalier.

DISSENT ACTION

Informants said Mr. Martin advised Haitian Charge d'Affaires Musset Pierre-Jerome of the Canadian government's "great dissatisfaction" with the Haitian government's expulsion Wednesday of 18 Canadian Jesuit missionaries.

There are between 400 and 500 Canadians, mostly missionaries, living in Haiti.

NO ACCEPTANCE

The Haitian diplomat was informed that Canada simply does not accept Haitian allegations that the Jesuits' activities were in any way improper.

The Haitian government's statement, circulated Thursday, alleged that the Jesuits had "a plan of general subversion looking to the overthrow of the regime," a Canadian source said.

LITERARY REVIEWS

The Jesuits also were accused of bringing into Haiti "literary reviews of articles from the international press particularly offensive to the regime and members of the government."

Ottawa Snowed By Secret Soot

OTTAWA (CP)—Burning of secret government documents—mostly on national defence—are responsible for bombarding a complex of government offices with soot and ash, says the public works department.

A fine-mesh screen has been ordered after investigations lasting several years, an official said Thursday.

Complaints have been coming in for some time and a recent meeting of the Civil Service Association blamed a federal building heating plant.

Not so, replied public works. It's an incinerator that is belching out ash from confidential documents.

Greek Cypriots stand over bodies of two Turkish Cypriots after capturing clinic during yesterday's fierce fighting in Limassol. Greeks claimed clinic was Turkish firing point.—(AP Photofax)

Limassol

By RAY MOLONEY
LIMASSOL, Cyprus (UPI)—The radio was playing dance music softly while gunfire rattled in the streets outside where Turkish and Greek Cypriots were fighting and dying.

We had slipped into the besieged Turkish section of this southwest port city which has been the scene of three days of intermittent but bitter fighting.

The British estimated there were about 50 killed and 100 wounded on both sides. And sporadic shooting continued hours after a cease-fire agreement had been arranged with the besieged Greek Cypriots.

"We've moved into the corridor because bullets were ricocheting everywhere," said British RAF senior aircraftsman Brian Cloud.

Cloud said he, his wife and their four-year-old daughter have been penned in their home since noon Tuesday. Turkish Cypriots helped by "bringing us food and so on, but I want to get my wife and daughter out of here as fast as I can."

"Limassol's only a start," said a grim-faced British army lieutenant outside. "If there's no settlement here, then God help the rest of the island."

CYPRIOTS ACCEPT TROOPS

Makarios

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Makarios of Cyprus indicated Thursday he would accept a peacekeeping force composed of countries, high-ranking U.S. troops of Commonwealth administration officials reported here Thursday night.

This solution would be acceptable to the United States, should Makarios reject the U.S.-British plan for a multi-national force, including U.S. troops, to land on the island and restore peace, the informant said.

Cyprus has been a member of the Commonwealth since becoming independent in 1960. They said that the Cypriot president did not reject completely the joint proposal submitted to him by U.S. State Undersecretary George W. Ball.

Ottawa Warm But Wary

LONDON (CP)—Lionel Chevrier, Canada's new high commissioner in London, said here Thursday Canada is not yet committed to contribute troops to the proposed Cyprus peace force, but is studying the British request for 1,000 men "with sympathy."

The formation of the force, he told a press conference, depends on a firm decision from Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus.

B.C. Electric Issue Still Hot Voltage

Wild Finale to Dull Day

Death agonies of the B.C. Electric brought a wild 25 minutes in the legislature last night.

Calm of a relatively dull day was suddenly shattered when the government brought in for second reading a bill authorizing last year's final payment of $25,000,000 to B.C. Power Corporation.

Within minutes, the premier had been charged of making untruthful statements, millionaire logger Gordon Gibson (L, North Vancouver) had been accused of appearing intoxicated in the legislature, and the government had been told it had denied justice to the people.

Debate on the bill opened when Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby) said it was patchwork legislation for the BCE take-over and that the province's right to expropriate a utility was still under a cloud.

NOT ENTERED
He said the judgment of Chief Justice Sherwood Lett has not been entered in the supreme court registry.

Mr. Gibson got into the melee with the remark that in 1961 he asked Premier Bennett about details of the expropriation and had not been told the truth.

"It was very embarrassing that I was given facts that were not true," said the burly lumber baron.

"You were tight, then," shouted Victoria's Walter Skilling.

OPPOSITION SHAMEFUL
Cries of "Shame" rose from Opposition benches.

The premier said the Opposition was being shameful.

Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane leaped in by accusing the government of ignoring rights of the expropriated company's preferred shareholders.

The government should do something to bring about a fair settlement with the holders of preferred shares, he said, otherwise it would be denying them justice.

"It's a disgrace these people should be treated so shabbily. This bill brings the whole thing into focus."

Bennett Refuses To See Worker

By TERRY HAMMOND

An angry young Fort St. John social worker who flew to Victoria to see Premier Bennett isn't going to Wallace du Temple, 23, went to the premier's office yesterday morning but was told Mr. Bennett was in conference and would not be available.

After waiting around the legislative buildings for several hours he said he would try again today.

But the premier last night indicated it would be fruitless.

Asked in a corridor if he would grant an appointment to Mr. du Temple, the premier snapped, "He's not an employee of this government."

He was referring to the fact that the young social worker had been handed his release by the welfare department a short time after he got here.

Mr. du Temple, whose mother lives in Seattle, created the latest upheaval in the provincial welfare office when he wrote a letter of resignation to the premier protesting unsatisfactory social services in northern B.C.

He said in the letter he had never received adequate training to cope with the awful conditions he found along his 1,100 miles of territory north of Fort St. John.

Prostitution and drunkenness were creating a serious juvenile delinquency problem in one of his communities but the welfare service there didn't open an office. His caseload was nearly double what it was supposed to be and because of long distance he could seldom be where he was needed.

He offered to make his resignation effective next June so the welfare department could get a new man.

B.C.'s in-service training course for social workers consists largely of irrelevant study punctuated by coffee drinking one of its graduates charged last night.

Wallace du Temple, 23, who sparked a new storm of welfare controversy with a letter to the premier, said the course is a waste of time, effort and money.

"The course consists of two parts, readings from the welfare policy manual and a 10 part movie."

Mr. du Temple said the movie covers each year in the life of a child from birth to the age of 10.

Sonic Boom-Boom-Boom

Test Town Battle-Fatigued

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Boom, boom, boom, boom—eight times a day.

It's an ear-racking U.S. government sonic boom test to see how humans and cities can stand up under the rattling noise supersonic aircraft will create. Oklahoma City is the test town.

One man has already had enough. He filed suit Thursday in U.S. district court charging the tests were unconstitutional.

Woodrow Bussey said the boom tests set a precedent that "conceivably" could lead to such things as birth control without prior consent of the citizens.

Also, Bussey said, booms hurt his ears.

Bussey sought an injunction to halt the tests by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The FAA began Feb. 3 with flights that caused the booms. They started at one-a-day and increased to the present eight. Results of the tests will help decide whether the United States should develop supersonic transport planes.

"Everytime I hear a sonic boom," Bussey, who suffered a wartime ear injury, said, "it's like something slapped me in the head. I can take it, but when it affects my little girl, that's something else."

Bussey said his daughter, Julie Chennault Bussey, 5, had no ear trouble before the boom testing began last month but now she complains of ringing in her ears.

The FAA said the first week of testing resulted in 60 damage claims and 653 telephone calls.

Week then, he said, she began having hearing difficulties.

Nuclear Dumps

Dogfood Included In $8,000,000

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—It's going to cost more than $8,000,000 a year to guard the storage dumps where nuclear warheads are kept for Canada's armed forces, informants said Thursday.

This figure includes dog food.

But not the nuclear warheads themselves. The United States supplies them free.

The dog food bill will be fairly substantial because the RCAF bought 34 German police dogs to help guard the two dumps on the airfields at Zweibrücken and Bader-Söllingen in West Germany. The dogs cost $100 each.

The other nuclear dumps are or will be at: Werl and Heimer in West Germany for the army's Honest John Rocket; at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile; and at Chatham, N.B., for the Voodoo jet interceptor.

There are no immediate plans for security staff dogs at the dumps in Canada. What's troubling the defence department, at a time when it's trying to cut overhead costs, is that it will require literally hundreds of men—one source said more than 1,000—to guard the dumps. The RCAF said the number of guards is a military secret.

Toronto Firm Recalls Drug After Deaths in U.S.

TORONTO (CP)—Supplies of a drug used to give better X-ray pictures have been recalled by a Toronto pharmaceutical manufacturer, following reports linking it to more than a dozen deaths in the United States.

The drug, orablix, a capsule which is swallowed, makes the gall bladder show up on X-ray film. B.C. doctors have shunned the drug for years.

The Food and Drug Administration in Washington, said Wednesday the firm that distributed the drug in the U.S. had taken it off the market.

Kidd Keeps Record Clean Never Loses in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Bruce Kidd, 20-year-old University of Toronto student and winner of this year's Tossaint Cup, took the lead late, lost it, then boiled from behind to nip Bob Schul of Oxford, Ohio, by two feet.

Ron Clarke of Australia, who recently broke the world outdoor six-mile and 10,000-yard records in Melbourne, was a third and Pat Ciochessy of the Texas Olympic Club fourth.

Schul's time was 8:42.8, Clarke's 8:43.8 and Ciochessy's 8:50.8.

NEVER LOST
In nine starts in New York in four years, Kidd has never lost a race, winning eight at the Garden track and one at Van Cortlandt Park in the Bronx.

Another Torontonian, Bill Crothers, won the 800-yard event earlier in the evening in one minute, 50.8 seconds—one-tenth of a second off the meet record.

RECORD MILE
Late Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola raced to a record indoor mile of 3:56.6.

O'Hara, who runs with an odd, arm-flapping gait, his arms flailing and his hands occasionally plucking at his running tights as he was trying to keep his pants from falling down, was aided by a brilliant bit of pacing by John Camien of Kansas State.

O'Hara, a trail-appearing little fellow who now runs with the world's best at the premier distance of the mile, lurched off Camien's shoulder through eight laps of the 11-lap course.

He then unleashed his killing kick, taking the lead with three laps to go and flashing around the track to a 65-yard victory.

CAME FROM LAST
In the 800, Crothers moved from last place in the four-lap field during the final lap, passing pace-setter Robin Lingle of Missouri and won by a yard.

Villanova's Noel Carol was third and Ed Duchini of Georgetown fourth.

Crothers, 23, also of the East York club, bettered the 1:51 time in which he won the same event here last year.

The meet record of 1:50.7 was set in 1957 by Arnie Sewell.

Crothers, the Canadian champion, also set U.S. National Amateur Athletic Union indoor record of 1:50 for 800 yards in the Millrose Games here earlier this year.

Big Bob Hayes of Florida A. & M. equalled the world record of six seconds in the 60-yard dash.

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que.—Mrs. Anne Phillips skipped her rink to the Quebec women's championship Thursday and now heads for the Canadian final in Edmonton starting Feb. 24.

MELFORT, Sask.—Moe Valade of Saskatoon needed overtime to defeat Syd Gardiner, Etos, 5-4, and retain the northern Saskatchewan championship Wednesday.

Valade meets Ernie Richardson in a best-of-three provincial final in Saskatoon, starting tonight.

At Chicago Game

Hockey Bookies Nabbed

CHICAGO (AP)—Three members of an alleged bookmaking ring which is said to have handled bets estimated at $40,000 at Chicago Black Hawks hockey games were arrested Wednesday night and each was charged with being the keeper of a gambling house.

They were seized in the Chicago Stadium during a National Hockey League game between the Black Hawks and New York Rangers, won by Chicago, 5-2.

Police said five bettors also were arrested and were charged with gambling.

Sgt. William Maloney said the three alleged bookmakers had been under surveillance for nearly a month. Maloney said they carried $1,200 when arrested.

Police said the men apparently accepted bets from $10 to $5,000 on individual goals scored, points made during game periods and the outcome of the game.

Charged with being the keeper of a gambling house were Morris Rosenthal, 60, and John C. Mann, 35, both of Chicago, and David Roth, 49, of suburban Melrose Park.

Wonderful Week for Wings Third Place Not Impossible

Seven days have transformed Detroit Red Wings from a club facing a threat from the last-place Boston Bruins into an outfit now looking a bit suggestively at the National Hockey League's third rung.

Continuing their sudden about-face, the Wings last night ran their longest win streak of the season to four with broken cheekbones. Gary Dornhoeffer, standout Boston rookie, played the last two periods with a helmet after catching an elbow from Larry Jeffrey while Detroit-defenseman Doug Barkley was taken to hospital after colliding with Jean-Guy Gendron.

X-Rays disclosed both had fractured cheekbones and will be out of action for an indefinite period.

Library at Ganges Officially Opened

GANGES—Members of Salt Spring Centennial Library Board were complimented recently by Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett when she officially opened the new library building on McPhillips Avenue here.

The scissors with which she cut the ribbon were presented to her as a memento by Dr. O. L. Stanton, president of the library board, and Mrs. Bennett reciprocated, according to tradition, by giving Dr. Stanton a penny.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

Mrs. W. W. Mount presented her with a beautiful corage.

Mrs. Bennett, in a brief address, stressed the great importance of the library to the community and seemed particularly impressed with the large section of children's books.

Dr. Stanton gave a short history of the library since its inception in 1959, and paid tribute to the volunteer workers, and in particular to the late Dr. W. J. McAllister and to Mrs. S. H. Hawkins, who really instigated the idea of a library.

FINE PROGRAM

A letter was read from R. L. Davidson, superintendent of the Public Library Commission, Victoria, in which he congratulated the Salt Spring Public Library on its remarkable progress.

More than 100 persons attended the ceremony.

Sawn Lumber Output Jumps

OTTAWA (CP)—The production of sawn lumber by sawmills east of the Rockies last year totalled 2,975,144,000 board feet, an increase of two per cent over 1962, the bureau of statistics said Wednesday.

Output in 1963 by province, with figures for 1962 in brackets: Prince Edward Island 9,248,000 board feet (11,719,000), Nova Scotia 286,626,000 (280,363,000), New Brunswick 243,840,000 (301,187,000), Quebec 1,315,200,000 (1,242,393,000), Ontario 695,149,000 (661,387,000), Manitoba 33,023,000 (35,731,000), Saskatchewan 49,246,000 (53,327,000), Alberta 343,694,000 (331,859,000).

Seeing Pink Seagulls? Don't Panic —Salt Spring's Seeing Them Too

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD—The district I live in has proved once more anything can happen.

But they'll never believe me—not anyone.

You see, we have a pink seagull—maybe two—somewhere on Salt Spring Island. And, as they say, here is Live Talent—or at least, a live bird of gorgeous color.

The reaction I received when I reported the blessed thing couldn't have been worse if I had said we have pink elephants at Fulford.

THERE, THERE

The desk at the Colonist took it with a sort of "there, there—take it easy, dear, and it'll go away" sort of brush-off.

At her practice, I was given advice on what not to drink when I mentioned pink seagulls.

Other wisecrackers were just as skeptical about the whole business. Some offered theories on why the bird—if it existed at all—was colored. They said perhaps it fell into a wine vat, or it is a publicity stunt, or nature has gone wild, crossed pink flamingos with seagulls.

"Premier Bennett is responsible." Now, that is more in line with opinions—they blame everything on the premier anyway—and what's a pink seagull more or less?

The Opposition will just love that (giving the premier the bird, I mean.)

COULDN'T BELIEVE

But the reports come from respectable residents who saw the pink seagull.

Take Mrs. Fred Hollings' report:

"I couldn't believe my senses. There was a pink seagull." She said it was almost a red color "and it seemed quite happy and normal."

However, she was feeling far from normal herself after the sight, until she heard that Tim O'Donnell, on his way to the ferry, also saw the pink bird.

FIRST REPORT

Bob Akerman gave the first report and put us on the track and now Jack Roland reports seeing the pink seagull in Ganges—another spotter said it was all pink except for the wings, I believe. So there you have it—and I wish I had the seagull!

A late report on the birds: All who spotted the same can cheer up when razzed—there IS a pink gull—the Franklin gull, seen in grasshopper time on the Prairies.

A. Davis, who comes from the Prairies and is now living at Dromore in Fulford, offers this answer.

NORMAL?

So if these pink gulls, spotted in Ganges Harbor and in Fulford, have in any way been dyed, permed or beautified in any way by anyone, great or small, no need to flap.

It may be a normal pink seagull come to see our fair British Columbia and to add to the Follow-the-Birds slogan.

Mrs. C. W. McClean of Beattie Road, reported to Driftwood, a weekly newspaper, a cerise-colored gull on her beach.

SURE ENOUGH

The unbelieving editor, Arlene Ward, set off, and sure enough, there was a bright pink gull sitting apart from its friends, seemingly ignored by all. It had white under its wings and in the tail spread.

A pair has been seen around Ganges Harbor the past few days, and at Fulford. The thing is fact and not fiction.

In Victoria Charles Guiguet of the provincial museum says he has reports of the birds and believes them to be some sort of bird-study program—but just what he hasn't been advised.

Greek Cypriots stand over bodies of two Turkish Cypriots after capturing clinic during yesterday's fierce fighting in Limassol. Greeks claimed clinic was Turkish firing point.—(AP Photofax)

Limassol

By RAY MOLONEY

LIMASSOL, Cyprus (UPI)—The radio was playing dance music softly while gunfire rattled in the streets outside where Turkish and Greek Cypriots were fighting and dying.

We had slipped into the besieged Turkish section of this southwest port city which has been the scene of three days of intermittent but bitter fighting.

The British estimated there were about 50 killed and 100 wounded on both sides. And sporadic shooting continued hours after a cease-fire agreement had been arranged with the besieged Greek Cypriots.

"We've moved into the corridor because bullets were richochetting everywhere," said British RAF senior aircraftman Brian Cloud.

Cloud said he, his wife and their four-year-old daughter have been penned in their home since noon Tuesday. Turkish Cypriots helped by bringing us food and so on, but I want to get my wife and daughter out of here as fast as I can.

"Limassol's only a start."

said a grim-faced British army lieutenant outside. "If there's no settlement here, then God help the rest of the island."

In the chaotic Turkish quarter Thursday morning, Turkish Cypriots manning barricades were bracing for an all-out assault. They were bitter about the failure of British troops to take over the city to protect them.

British para troops and other units from the nearby base at Episkopi were standing by on the outskirts, awaiting orders to move in. But the Greek Cypriots, who were forcing the situation and who outnumbered the Turkish Cypriots five to one, wanted to keep the British soldiers out.

'If There's No Settlement Here Then God Help Rest of Island'

PEACE UNIT ACCEPTED BY CYPRIOTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Makarios of Cyprus indicated Thursday he would accept a peace-keeping force composed of troops of Commonwealth countries, high-ranking U.S. administration officials reported here Thursday night.

This solution would be acceptable to the United States, should Makarios reject the U.S.-British plan for a multi-national force, including U.S. troops, to land on the island and restore peace, the informants said.

Cyprus has been a member of the Commonwealth since becoming independent in 1960.

They said that the Cypriot president did not reject completely the joint proposal submitted to him by U.S. State Undersecretary George W. Ball. Instead, they said, Makarios made a counter-proposal which Ball immediately forwarded to Washington where President Johnson and British Prime Minister Douglas-Home took it under consideration.

Ottawa Warm But Wary

LONDON (CP)—Lionel Chevrier, Canada's new high commissioner in London, said here Thursday Canada is not yet committed to contribute troops to the proposed Cyprus peace force, but is studying the British request for 1,000 men "with sympathy."

The formation of the force, he told a press conference, depends on a firm decision from Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus.

B.C. Electric Issue Still Hot Voltage

Wild Finale to Dull Day

Death agonies of the B.C. Electric brought a wild 25 minutes in the legislature last night.

Calm of a relatively dull day was suddenly shattered when the government brought in for second reading a bill authorizing last year's final payment of $25,000,000 to B.C. Power Corporation.

Within minutes, the premier had been charged of making untruthful statements, millionaire logger Gordon Gibson (L, North Vancouver) had been accused of appearing intoxicated in the legislature, and the government had been told it had denied justice to the people.

Debate on the bill opened when Gordon Dowling (NDP, Burnaby) said it was patchup legislation for the BCE takeover and that the province's right to expropriate a utility was still under a cloud.

NOT ENTERED

He said the judgment of Chief Justice Sherwood Lett has not been entered in the supreme court registry.

Mr. Gibson got into the melee with the remark that in 1961 he asked Premier Bennett about details of the expropriation and had not been told the truth.

"It was very embarrassing that I was given facts that were not true," said the burly lumber baron.

"You were tight, then," shouted Victoria's Walter Skilling.

OPPOSITION SHAMEFUL

Cries of "Shame" rose from Opposition benches.

The premier said the Opposition was being shameful.

Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane leaped in by accusing the government of ignoring rights of the expropriated company's preferred shareholders.

The government should do something to bring about a fair settlement with the holders of preferred shares, he said, otherwise it would be denying them justice.

"It's a disgrace these people should be treated so shabbily. This bill brings the whole thing into focus."

Bennett Refuses To See Worker

By TERRY HAMMOND

An angry young Fort St. John social worker who flew to Victoria to see Premier Bennett isn't going to. Wallace du Temple, 23, went to the premier's office yesterday morning but was told Mr. Bennett was in conference and would not be available.

After waiting around the legislative buildings for several hours he said he would try again today.

But the premier last night indicated it would be fruitless.

Asked in a corridor if he would grant an appointment to Mr. du Temple, the premier snapped, "He's not an employee of this government."

He was referring to the fact that the young social worker had been handed his release by the welfare department a short time after he got here.

Mr. du Temple, whose mother lives in Saanich, created the latest upheaval in the provincial welfare office when he wrote a letter of resignation to the premier protesting unsatisfactory social services in northern B.C.

He said in the letter he had never received adequate training to cope with the awful conditions he found along his 1,100 miles of territory north of Fort St. John.

Prostitution and drunkenness were creating a serious juvenile delinquency problem in one of his communities but the welfare service wouldn't open an office there. His caseload was nearly double what it was supposed to be and because of long distance he could seldom be where he was needed.

He offered to make his resignation effective next June so the welfare department could get on with it.

Manual, Film, Coffee Course on Welfare

B.C.'s in-service training course for social workers consists largely of irrelevant study punctuated by coffee drinking, one of its graduates charged last night.

Wallace du Temple, 23, who sparked a new storm of welfare controversy with a letter to the premier, said the course is a waste of time, effort and money.

"The course consists of two parts, readings from the welfare policy manual and a 10-part movie."

Mr. du Temple said the movie covers each year in the life of a child from birth to the age of 10.

To Communists

U.K. Offers Trade Lure

WASHINGTON (CP)—Prime Minister Douglas-Home said Thursday Britain hopes to expand trade with Communist countries and is prepared to offer long-term credit in anticipation of capturing a number of new contracts in the Soviet Union.

He said also that while he and President Johnson achieved harmony on a large number of world questions, Britain does not agree with the U.S. on policy towards Cuba. Nor would Britain endorse any move to impose boycotts or other discrimination on non-strategic trade with the Communists.

Summing up his two days of discussions with Johnson, Douglas-Home told a press conference the two countries agreed to work together in world tariff negotiations this year and to press ahead with hopes of achieving some disarmament agreements with Russia.

The prime minister emphasized that Britain fully endorses U.S. military action in South Viet Nam. Johnson, in turn, endorsed the independence and freedom of Malaysia.

Touching on the Cyprus issue, Douglas-Home warned that the bloodshed there could spread into a war that could engulf all of the Mediterranean area.

As for American opposition to recognition of Red China, Sir Alec said Britain feels Red China should be allowed to become a member of the United Nations, though he declined to speculate when this might come about.

Sonic Boom-Boom-Boom

Test Town Battle-Fatigued

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Boom, boom, boom, boom—eight times a day.

It's an ear-racking U.S. government sonic boom test to see how humans and flies can stand up under the rattling noise supersonic airliners will create. Oklahoma City is the test town.

One man has already had enough. He filed suit Thursday in U.S. district court charging the tests were unconstitutional.

Woodrow Bussey said the boom tests set a precedent that "constantly" could lead to such things as birth control without prior consent of the citizens.

Also, Bussey said, booms hurt his ears.

Bussey sought an injunction to halt the tests by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The FAA began Feb. 3 with flights that caused the booms. They started at one-a-day and increased to the present eight. Results of the tests will help decide whether the United States should develop supersonic transport planes.

"Everytime I hear a sonic boom," Bussey, who suffered a wartime ear injury, said, "it's like something slapped me in the head. I can take it, but when it affects my little girl, that's something else."

Bussey said his daughter, Julie Chennault Bussey, 5, had no ear trouble before the boom testing began last week. Then, he said, she began having hearing difficulties.

The FAA said the first week of testing resulted in 60 damage claims and 633 telephone calls.

"A sonic boom that can shake a house could do nothing but harm to the delicate membranes of the human ear..." Bussey's petition said.
